Human Rights Risk Mapping

Mitsui has assessed our global supply chains in 2020 by assessing 3,128 transactions conducted by the head office and 7,820 transactions conducted by its oversea office (which includes MII) from the human rights perspective broadly including modern slavery risks using human rights risk mapping, together with advice from and consultation with independent experts.

The assessment was based on leading international human rights risk indicators and other tools such as the "List of Goods Produced by Child Labor or Forced Labor" of Bureau of International Labor Affairs (ILAB) and "Global Map of Environmental and Social Risks in Agro-Commodity Production" of International Finance Corporation (IFC), placing emphasis on the core labour standards identified by the International Labour Organization (ILO).

Through this process, none of the existing suppliers of MII have been identified in the high-risk combinations. MII also engages suppliers of banking and professional services (such as major banks, legal, accounting and consultancy firms). MII is satisfied from the results of supplier inquiries and assessment that these professional service providers have responsible supply chain policies and where applicable, report their anti-modern slavery statements, and in relation to the service provided to MII, are unlikely to have high-risk combinations in those supply chains.

4. Managing risk – s 16(1)(d) of the Act

Policies and monitoring framework

First of all, MII maintains its Business Conduct Guidelines, which oblige the company and its people to conduct our business in a manner that respect human rights and does not involve any modern slavery practices. The Guidelines also prohibit discrimination on the basis of any protected attribute under the law. The Guidelines are MII's principal code of conduct of our employees and contractors, who are required to understand and adhere to the Guidelines throughout their employment or engagement.

We also have in place reporting route available for both internal and external reporting in case of any complaints or concerns regarding our modern slavery obligations.

5. Assessing effectiveness and looking ahead – s 16(1)(e) of the Act

We are assessing the effectiveness of actions by:

- monitoring the results of our supplier checks and continuously undertaking periodic reviews on the relevancy of these checks; and
- working together with Mitsui and MCA to benefit from their reflections on their own human rights due diligence efforts.

In the financial year ending 31 March 2023, we intend to continue our efforts on our suppliers checks to assess for modern slavery risks, analyse the check results and engage with relevant stakeholders (e.g., Board of Directors, President & Managing Director, General Managers) to discuss what appropriate actions can be taken, if required.

We recognise that the risks of modern slavery are complex and evolving. We will continue to work to address these risks in our business and engage with a range of stakeholders to assess the effectiveness of our actions and enhance our approach.
