Supply chain: Australia-specific | In the case of Galderma's operations in Australia, we do not manufacture any products locally. To meet any additional needs in Australia, we engage a multitude of vendors for services including transport, warehousing, marketing and employment services.

Galderma Australia does not have any registered office in New Zealand, instead it distributes its products and services through a partner.

Policies & procedures

Galderma strives for the highest standards and integrity, with well-defined governance which guides how our company, employees and partners conduct business.

Galderma's Integrity Reporting Hotline provides employees as well as third parties with a channel to share concerns or violations with the company's values and standards, also anonymously, if preferred.

Code of Ethics | Our Code of Ethics is an express declaration of adherence to the highest ethical standards in our work. It sets out Galderma's values and principles for business conduct and states that it is the responsibility of every Galderma employee to "do the right thing, the right way" to ensure the highest standards of integrity. It means that when we create value for our company and its stakeholders, such as the people and communities we serve, we should do so by acting in an ethical and socially responsible way. Among others, Galderma expressly commits to embracing diversity and respecting the rights of our fellow employees. Galderma commits to respecting the personal dignity, privacy and personal rights of every employee and is committed to maintaining a workplace free from discrimination and harassment.

Supplier Code | Our Supplier Code sets out the standards we expect our suppliers to adhere to when conducting business for us. These standards concern the environment, social aspects and business ethics and form an integral part of our supplier contracts unless, in exceptional circumstances, suppliers have implemented their own equivalent set of standards. It is the supplier's responsibility to communicate our standards to their employees, agents and subcontractors and to train them accordingly. This includes a clear position with regards to the following:

- Prison and forced labor: The supplier must under no circumstances use or in any other way benefit from forced labor. Likewise, labor in the form of indentured servitude is prohibited, as is the use of corporal punishment, confinement, threats of violence or other forms of harassment or abuse as a method of discipline or control.
The supplier shall not utilize factories or production facilities that oblige work to be carried out by unpaid or indentured laborers, nor shall the Supplier contract for the manufacture of products with subcontractors that engage in such practices or utilize such facilities.
- Child labor: The use of child labor by the supplier is strictly prohibited, as it places children at risk or can compromise their schooling or negatively impact their physical, mental, spiritual, moral or social development.
- Working Hours: The supplier must ensure that his/her employees work in compliance with all applicable laws and mandatory industry standards pertaining to the number of hours and days worked.
- Compensation: The supplier's employees must be provided with wages and benefits that comply with national and local applicable laws and binding collective agreements, including those pertaining to overtime work and other premium pay arrangements and other social protection related terms.
- Workplace Environment: The supplier shall provide employees with safe and healthy working/housing conditions. At the very least, potable, drinking water, adequate sanitation, fire exits and essential safety equipment, access to emergency medical care, appropriately lit and equipped workstations must be approved. In addition, facilities must be constructed and maintained in accordance with the standards set by applicable codes and ordinances.

Anti-Bribery and Corruption (ABAC) Policy | To build on the core principles of the Code of Ethics, we launched a separate ABAC Policy in June 2020 that is consistent with international standards and laws and provides the minimum requirements for Galderma. Galderma prohibits all forms of bribery and corruption, whether involving a government official or private person or entity, whether direct or through a third party.

Third parties and due diligence

Any third party engaged by Galderma must conduct business ethically and is expected to comply with all our standards, including laws and regulations where we operate or the third party operates on our behalf.

Galderma applies a risk-based approach when conducting due diligence on its third parties. This includes vetting of the third party prior to engagement, monitoring throughout the relationship and providing adequate training to the third parties. Additional work is ongoing in terms of enhancing further Galderma's due diligence program.

Managing risks

Galderma is committed to establish a comprehensive and rigorous risk management process where emerging, strategic and operational risks are discussed and remediated when necessary. Standard Operating Procedures are regularly reviewed and updated and training plans are developed on those risks which are considered high.

Galderma has mandated highly reputable rating agencies to perform audits on selected suppliers at regular intervals. As part of the audit, suppliers are required to submit their policies and compliance certificates. The scope is defined based on the risks associated to the country/location and the industry a supplier operates in as well as Galderma's spend on the respective supplier.

Measuring the effectiveness

As part of Galderma's Risk Management and of establishing corporate structures (see also under "Trainings and next steps in 2021"), Galderma is currently putting strong efforts into building the necessary capabilities and measuring their effectiveness. This would include indicators such as reports submitted through Galderma's Integrity Reporting Hotline, training completion rates and supplier's compliance with the Supplier Code.

Trainings and next steps in 2021

Becoming an independent company in late 2019¹, Galderma significantly progressed in 2020 in establishing the necessary corporate structures including a robust compliance and ethics organization and program with major training and procedure rollouts planned for 2021. This includes training on the Company's Code of Ethics as well as additional codes and specific risk areas identified.
