【Operation】

IIA owns 100% of the shares of Freedom Energy Holdings Pty Ltd (Freedom). Freedom is an Australian resident company and IIA is a company resident in Singapore. IIA is proposing to purchase refined products, including mogas and diesel (the “products”), from related company and/or third party suppliers that may be resident in various locations (including Australia, Korea, Taiwan etc). It is intended the products will then be on-sold to Freedom in Australia. IIA may blend the quality of the products before selling to Freedom. IIA will purchase the products from suppliers on a FOB and/or DES basis.

In the case of FOB, title will pass from the supplier to IIA as the product passes the manifold flange at the loading port. In the case of DES, title will pass from the supplier to IIA as the product passes the vessel’s permanent flange connection at the discharge port.

Freedom will take title to the products as they pass the outlet flange of the storage tank from which the product is being delivered. The products will be transported to Australia in one of the following ways:

- Arranged by the suppliers i.e. a transportation fee will be included in the purchase price of the products from the supplier who will arrange for transfer of the products to Australia.
- A subsidiary shipping company, IDEMITSU TANKER CO., LTD. Singapore Branch will charter a vessel on a spot basis and arrange for the transport of the products itself.

- IIA will act as the importer of the products into Australia (excluding where the products are purchased from a domestic market in Australia).
- The storage tank will be sub-leased by IIA from Freedom. We understand that Freedom will lease the storage tank from GrainCorp Australia, an unrelated third party resident in Australia.

The activities of IIA in Australia including the importation and storage of fuel in Australia and the sale of the fuel to its subsidiary, Freedom will be sufficient for IIA to be regarded as carrying on a business in Australia under the terms of the Australian Corporations Act 2001.

【What risks of modern slavery practices exist in our operations and supply chains】

Low risk: Supply of petroleum products is considered low risk given the nature of sale of imported products ex refinery and domestically;

Potential areas of higher risk: Risks associated with the modern slavery law held by suppliers at the refineries of suppliers that we purchase petroleum products.

【How we assess and address modern slavery risks including our due diligence and remediation processes】

3. Risk of Modern Slavery practice in the Operation and Supply Chain

Since petroleum products are products made by refining crude oil, the petroleum products handled by IIA are products refined at refineries anywhere in the world. As the oil industry, including refineries and trading companies, is not a labor-intensive industrial structure, we generally recognize that modern slavery problems are difficult to arise. The Idemitsu Group, including the IIA, has established a Compliance Code of Conduct and promotes compliance, including responses to modern slave problems.

And, IIA also complies with the rules and policies of its parent company, IKC, and avoids the risks associated with modern slavery law.

In addition, IIA regularly surveys each supplier on the risks of Modern Slavery Law using questionnaires.

In addition, for suppliers starting new trades, the relevant risks are confirmed in the KYC procedures and transactions are started.

4. Actions taken to assess and address risks, including due diligence and mitigation measures

(1) Our human rights and contemporary slavery risk-management efforts are supported by policies and guidelines such as IIA Business Conduct Guideline, IIA Trading Rulebook, IIA Enterprise Risk Management Framework, IIA Employee Handbook, IIA-Rules for Compliance, and Idemitsu's Anti-Corruption Policy, IKC's Compliance Book, BCP Rule.

(2) These policies and guidelines are routinely verified, reviewed and revised by IIA Planning & Compliance team. IIA members are trained on a case-by-case basis. In IIA, where there are compliance concerns, IIA Planning & Compliance team plays a central role in providing appropriate guidance to all

IIA personnel. Compliance-related policies, guidelines, and training materials are communicated throughout the company through IIA Planning & Compliance team.

(3) Procurement of goods and services from third parties is governed by IIA Trading Rulebook and IIA Business Conduct Guideline and stipulates the process of contract conclusion, approval and control.
