RISKS OF MODERN SLAVERY PRACTICES IN THE OPERATIONS AND SUPPLY CHAIN

Coty Australia along with Coty has a strict 'Code of Conduct' in place. The Code of Conduct sets out Coty's policies and ethical standards that must be understood and followed by everyone who acts on behalf of Coty. This includes contractors and employees of Coty subsidiaries and joint venture companies. In addition, the Code of Conduct specifies Coty's expectation that third parties including consultants, agents, suppliers, and business partners, adhere to Coty's ethical standards.

It is a condition of every employee's employment with Coty Australia, including directors, officers, and employees that the Code of Conduct must be complied with. Violations of the Coty Code of Conduct are not tolerated and subject to disciplinary measures including termination of employment.

Under the Code of Conduct, Coty Australia insists that all of its business be conducted in compliance with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations. It is the responsibility of every director, officer, employee, and contractor to comply with all applicable governmental laws and regulations at any level in the states and countries in which Coty operates. Failure to obey all applicable laws and regulations violates the Code of Conduct. Any illegal action will be dealt with swiftly, and violations will be reported to the proper authorities.

Coty Australia along with Coty seek to maintain their reputation as an outstanding company that ensures high levels of employee motivation and commitment, and strives to provide employees with an equitable, safe, and healthy work environment. Coty Australia is committed to providing equal employment opportunities to employees and applicants regardless of race, color, religion, age, gender, sexual orientation, disability, national origin, citizenship, marital status, veteran status, or any other characteristic that is protected by the laws and regulations to which Coty Australia is subject. In addition, Coty Australia fully complies with workplace safety and health rules and regulations.

Coty Australia's employment and remuneration practices comply with the Fair Work Act 2009. All new employees are provided with the 'Fair Work Information Statement' setting out their statutory entitlements. Coty Australia has equitable workplace policies and procedures in place that apply to, recruiting, hiring, training and development, promotion, transfer, compensation, termination, and benefits. As such, Coty Australia believes that the risk of modern slavery in its directly employed workforce is low.

Some of the countries of packaging and manufacturing Coty's products may have higher inherent geographic risk rating (based on Global Slavery Index) of modern slavery due to socio economic factors (such as poverty) as well as a generally high risk of modern slavery associated with the cosmetics industry due to variety of raw materials required for the production, resulting in the following modern slavery risk for Coty Australia:

- Reliance on third-party suppliers of raw materials for the production by related party and third-party manufacturers in countries in Europe, Brazil, China, and the U.S. of finished products ultimately distributed in Australia.

Whereas Coty Australia has no direct control, influence or oversight over the terms and conditions of work of the employees performing the duties for the third-party suppliers and service providers engaged in our operations and supply chain, Coty Australia does acknowledge that there could be some risks of exploitative labour practices. As a result, modern slavery risks identified as follows:

- Reliance on third-party providers of marketing, cleaning, and maintenance services in Australia;
- Reliance on third-party logistics contracts for local distribution centers;
- Reliance on third-party outsourced service providers based in Philippines and Malaysia to support certain finance functions.

In addition, Coty Australia recognizes that the continued Covid-19 pandemic in FY2021 is likely to result in increased vulnerability of workers to modern slavery and other forms of exploitations within the operations and supply chain of third-party suppliers, service providers as well as manufacturers due to (including but not limited to) the loss of income, excessive overtime to cover capacity gaps, increased demand due to supply chain shortages.

ADDRESSING RISKS

Direct operations

Coty Australia fully complies with the Fair Work Act 2019 and all relevant workplace health and safety and equal employment opportunity laws and regulations to mitigate the risk of modern slavery in its directly employed workforce. In addition, Coty Australia has a number of employment policies in place on workplace matters including Personal Grievance Handling, and Anti-discrimination, Bullying, Harassment & EEO policies. These policies are accessed via Coty's internal web platform. The Coty Code of Conduct is issued to all new employees as part of the employment induction process and relevant policies and procedures are available on the ANZ SharePoint for all employees to access. New employees must sign an acknowledgment that they have read and understood the Coty Code of Conduct. A copy of the signed Acknowledgment is retained on each employee's personal file. The Coty Code of Conduct is also readily available to download via internal web platform.

In addition, in 2021, Coty continued to implement the global compliance program, "Behave Beautifully", designed to detect and prevent violations of the law and promote a culture of ethical business practices. The compliance training sets out Coty's standards across a number of areas, including anti-bribery and corruption, competition law, data privacy, and prevention of harassment and discrimination. In FY21, to ensure that the policies remain accessible and meaningful, Coty updated all policies (including the Code of Conduct). A series of additional guidance documents related to specific issues were created, which Coty employees must adhere to, such as workplace harassment, charitable contributions, preventing workplace discrimination and others. By 2025, Coty's goal is to ensure that 95% of associates complete compliance training on a yearly basis. In FY21, 4,818 of our in-scope associates completed the supporting modules on the Coty Academy – a completion rate of 98%. These are available in 13 languages.

Third-party suppliers of raw materials for the production by related party and third-party manufacturers

Coty's Global Procurement, being responsible for selecting suppliers of raw materials and any third-party manufacturers of the finished goods, in 2017 undertook a risk-mapping exercise, considering the material or service being purchased, the geographical region it is provided from, and the level of spend.

Coty has prioritised the compliance verification with those suppliers who are considered at the highest risk of non-compliance using the Suppliers' Ethical Data Exchange (SEDEX) to comply via a third-party, ethical audit. These audits are either announced or semi announced (undertaken within a two to three-week timeframe) and performed on-site by independent auditors. They cover the areas of labour and human rights (including modern slavery), health and safety, environmental standards and business integrity. Suppliers can select an auditor from an approved list who are SEDEX affiliate audit companies and members of the Association of Professional Social Compliance Auditors (APSCA).

Coty has continued to increase the use of the SEDEX audit platform with a focus on direct suppliers at a higher risk of non-compliance to Code of Conduct for Business Partners. Whereas Coty uses the EcoVadis 360° ESG assessments for suppliers within indirect spend Categories, including service and labour providers.

EcoVadis is used to assess the environmental and social performance of the suppliers, based on supplier documentation related to the four key areas:

- Environment
- Labor and Human Rights
- Ethics
- Sustainable Procurement

EcoVadis analysts assess Coty suppliers' documentation related to these areas as well as analyze their performance through a thorough 360° process. Both Coty and the supplier receive a report based on 100,000 data points and references including from governments, charities, trade associations and stakeholders. If areas of high risk are identified, a time-bound corrective action plan is put in place and a reassessment timeframe agreed by both parties.

In addition to Coty's supplier compliance process, the increased risks of human and labour rights abuses with certain raw materials is recognised.

Mica is a key raw material used in many of Coty's products to provide a pearlescent effect. Coty sources mica from different countries, including the US and India. Within India, and specifically the Eastern States of Bihar and Jharkhand, there are known risks of child labour in mining communities.

Coty is committed to sourcing mica responsibly, and traceability is critical to building a sustainable supply chain. In 2017, Coty became a founding member of the multi-stakeholder effort, the Responsible Mica Initiative (RMI). Coty participates in the annual RMI data collection campaign, sharing details of the mica sourcing, and working towards full traceability of processing units and mines to gain further visibility.

In 2021, the Responsible Mica Initiative (RMI) has updated its 2022 target to reflect a set of new ambitions for 2030. This reflects the impacts of Covid-19 on mine workers, a change in project scope, and the political climate in India - which has posed challenges for the implementation of a legal framework. As a member of the RMI, Coty has correspondingly aligned the efforts towards a new ambition: Coty will ensure 100% of Indian Mica is responsibly sourced by 2030.

Additionally, Coty's third-party manufacturing agreements include a specific clause requiring that suppliers do not use any child or forced labour.

Local third-party suppliers and service providers

Coty's and Coty Australia's commitment to respecting human rights of the employees, associates, manufacturers and raw material suppliers also extends to our third-party suppliers and service providers. Coty Australia's terms and conditions for local suppliers include a clause where the suppliers acknowledge and comply with the Code of Conduct for Business Partners ("the Code"), a copy of which is readily available via online Coty Supplier web site. The Code is based on international human and labour rights standards, including slavery and human trafficking.

Coty Australia fosters accountability and therefore take any incidents of non-compliance seriously. These would be escalated to appropriate senior leadership and recorded accordingly to ensure we monitor and address as required.

In 2021 Coty deployed a responsible sourcing framework covering all elements relevant to the business partners, including Coty Australia's local third-party suppliers and service providers, with key indicators to monitor progress. Supplier performance against the framework is considered when: Assessing performance of existing suppliers, defining a supplier panel to be briefed, awarding business, and identifying potential new suppliers. Coty has a grievance policy in case of lack of meaningful actions in order to highlight the seriousness of compliance.

Covid-19

In FY2021, the Covid-19 pandemic had a significant impact on the business operations and the communities in which Coty Australia operates. The health and safety of our associates and their families has been the number one priority for the business. From the early stages of the pandemic, Coty Australia encouraged its employees to work remotely wherever possible, in line with Australian government guidelines and Coty's global flexible working program known as Omni-Working, which is built on the principles of workplace health and safety and work / life balance. At all times during the pandemic, Coty Australia has adhered to the directives and guidance of the relevant Government health authorities to protect the health and safety of all employees. This has included the development of comprehensive Covid-Safe Protocols and Procedures covering all workplace settings (office and field operations) and applying to all key stakeholders including employees, contractors, and visitors to our sites.

ASSESSMENT OF THE EFFECTIVENESS

Direct operations

The effectiveness of the process is being assessed on the ongoing basis by continuing to actively encourage employees to use the Ethics and Compliance Hotline to raise questions or concerns. The Hotline, run by an independent company, is accessible via phone or online 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and enables individuals to report. Reporting can be made anonymously, and each report is investigated.

Coty Australia along with Coty actively uphold non-retaliation policy so that individuals are free to report their concerns safely. Any reports directly to HR will also be thoroughly investigated and reported to the local leadership team and escalated further, if required.

Third-party suppliers of raw materials for the production by related party and third-party manufacturers

Coty continues to risk-assess suppliers, including some indirect supplier sites (suppliers of goods or services such as marketing and professional services) and medium risk suppliers. In total, approximately 350 sites have been engaged. As of June 2021, 697 sites globally were assessed by Coty under the SEDEX ethical trade program, of which 159 were further assessed through audit and 152 through self-assessment questionnaire. Coty continues to work with the suppliers to resolve any major or critical non-compliances (NCs) through a Corrective Action Plan. In addition, Coty has an ethical trade coordinator dedicated to Coty from SEDEX, who assists in the process of risk-assessment and engages with the suppliers to work together on compliance.

During the year, using the EcoVadis platform, 274 suppliers were assessed, scoring on average 28% higher than the overall EcoVadis average. For Labour and Human rights specifically, the score was on 24% higher than the EcoVadis average at the time of release.

In FY21, Coty has run three training sessions for global category buyers and directors with EcoVadis experts, helping to strengthen the internal understanding of best practice in socially and environmentally responsible procurement.

As part of Coty's commitment to sourcing mica responsibly, Coty have traced 100% of mica to country level, of which, 68% of mica is sourced from India, and 100% of Indian mica is sourced from suppliers who are members of RMI, allowing for a collaborative approach. Coty continues to work on enhancing our traceability mapping to mine level and advancing the RMI's efforts by encouraging our suppliers to take part in pilot projects.

In addition, in 2021, Coty has also joined a new partnership between the RMI and the supply chain traceability platform, Tilkal. This is the first multi-stakeholder blockchain-based solution to improve traceability across mica supply chains. Together, the partners will launch a pilot project for an online platform providing full traceability of mica to the mine and processor level. Through the project, blockchain technology will be used to help make timely and accurate data collection possible across the entire mica supply chain, helping RMI to improve data transparency, maintain security and better understand the supply chain. Coty is one of eight companies taking part in the pilot, as of the launch of this report.

Local third-party suppliers and service providers

Coty Australia has partnered with the national industry association Accord representing manufacturers and suppliers of hygiene, personal care, and specialty products to further understand the risks of modern slavery via Accord provided trainings, seminars, and sector-specific conferences, as well as to assist with strengthening approach to assessing human rights risks and advocacy within the industry.

With regards to the Australian third-party manufacturer and third-party rework supplier, both are members of SEDEX Australia and are audited accordingly to comply with their membership requirements. Coty Australia is periodically provided with a copy of latest SEDEX audits to ensure compliance.

Third-party logistics provider Linfox maintains robust Modern Slavery Policy, which is reviewed and approved annually, with a copy shared with Coty Australia accordingly.

In addition, during the year ended 30 June 2021, seven business partners including third-party logistics and third-party re-packaging suppliers, as well as freight forwarders, representing 40% of annual spend of Coty Australia have signed the latest Code of Conduct.

STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT AND CONSULTATION

The modern slavery statement is made by the Company in consultation with its reporting subsidiary, where both operate and are managed as an integrated group with comprehensive policies, systems and processes that are consistently applied. The process of consultation involved engagement key departments that collaborate to deliver modern slavery risk identification, assessment and management processes for the direct operations and supply chain.
