

SMARTSHEET MODERN SLAVERY ACT STATEMENT (“STATEMENT”)

Introduction

Smartsheet is committed to prevent modern slavery and human trafficking within its business operations and supply chains. This Statement outlines the steps we have taken to identify, mitigate, and address risks related to modern slavery in our business and supply chain. This Statement is made pursuant to the United Kingdom’s Modern Slavery Act 2015 and Australia’s Modern Slavery Act 2018 for the financial year ending January 31, 2026 and applies to Smartsheet Inc. and its applicable subsidiaries, including Smartsheet UK Limited, Smartsheet Australia Pty Ltd, and Smartsheet Japan K.K. (collectively, “Smartsheet”, “we”, “us” or “our”).

About Smartsheet

Smartsheet was founded in 2005 and is headquartered in Bellevue, Washington, USA, and operates offices in Boston, London, San José, Sydney, Tokyo, and Bangalore. Smartsheet has employees globally, with customers in approximately 190 countries.

Since our founding, Smartsheet has enabled individuals and teams, and over 100,000 customers, to become high achievers. Through our collaborative work management platform, we create innovative work management solutions, mobilize a passionate and diverse global team, and make a positive impact in communities where we live and work. Today, Smartsheet is present in nonprofit organizations, small businesses, and more than 85% of 2025 Fortune 500 companies around the globe. Our game-changing collaborative work management software is redefining the possibilities of work management and empowering people to do amazing things.

Smartsheet’s Mission and Values

We are committed to empowering anyone to drive meaningful change.

For our customers, that means we deliver the tools that support a dynamic workforce, and we strive constantly to improve them. Inside Smartsheet, it means empowering our employees to make an impact, ensuring that our company provides the engaging, inclusive, dynamic environment that challenges employees to reach their potential.

We do this “The Smartsheet Way”, which is our guide to the values and competencies that we expect of ourselves, both as a company and as individuals. Just like our enterprise work management platform, we intend our values to change the way work gets done, proving that by seizing opportunity, winning with integrity, prioritizing "we" before "me", and pursuing progress, we can drive better outcomes for our team, our shareholders, and our customers.

At Smartsheet, our core values guide how we engage with each other and our customers, partners, and communities. We are focused on harnessing our collective passion, resources, and technology to make a positive impact in the world and support causes that reflect our company’s vision of empowering human achievement.

Smartsheet's Modern Slavery Risks & How We Mitigate Them

Smartsheet has zero tolerance for modern slavery and we are committed to identifying and preventing modern slavery in our business operations and supply chain, both internally and in all of our business relationships with our suppliers, vendors, and partners.

Employees

With global operations supported by a distributed workforce, including a large number of remote employees, we have identified certain safeguarding and vulnerability risks for our employees. Our aim is to create a work environment that protects and supports our colleagues. Wellbeing and safety are our priorities, and we all have a responsibility to ensure we look after ourselves and each other.

Engaging Ethical Suppliers and Vendors

Smartsheet is committed to ethical business conduct and expects that its suppliers and vendors will share and embrace this commitment. To ensure all those in our supply chain comply with our values, we maintain a supply chain compliance program.

In furtherance of Smartsheet's commitment to the fair treatment of employees, we request certain information and contractual commitments from our suppliers and vendors to comply with applicable laws, and we request that our suppliers and vendors agree to our Vendor Code of Conduct which requires supplier and vendors:

- (i) not use forced, slave, indentured, bonded, trafficked, prison, or child labor of any sort or do business with any other vendor or contractor that uses such labor;
- (ii) not engage in human trafficking of any sort or do business with any entity that engages in human trafficking; and
- (iii) respect all individuals' human rights including the rights of freedom of association and movement.

Similar to internal practices, should Smartsheet ever become aware of violations, we would seek to take appropriate action up to and including notification to authorities and termination of the applicable business relationship.

Our Policies

We have appropriate policies in place that underpin our commitment to ensure that there is no modern slavery in our supply chains or in any part of our business. We continuously review and update all of our policies, and address these concepts in our Employee Code of Business Conduct and Ethics ("Code of Conduct") among other internal policies.

Our policies reflect our commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all of our business relationships and to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure modern slavery is not taking place anywhere in our supply chains.

Checking for Valid Authorization to Work

We ensure that all new hires have valid authorization to work. This authorization is vetted by a third party company. To the extent that we should become aware of fabricated, fraudulent, or falsified work authorization documentation, then we would take appropriate measures up to and including notifying proper authorities.

Monitoring Risk and Escalating Concerns

Employees are provided guidance for escalating grievances and complaints through appropriate channels without fear of retaliation. This includes a comprehensive Whistleblower & Complaint Policy and a third-party whistleblower hotline for reporting financial and other suspected wrongdoing, including an incident classification for “modern slavery, exploitation, and trafficking.” No instances of modern slavery were noted or reported in our most recent fiscal year.

Acknowledging Our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics for Employees

Once an individual joins Smartsheet, they must read and acknowledge our Code of Conduct, which requires ethical business practices and compliance with applicable laws, and they are further required to acknowledge the Code of Conduct on an annual basis. Additionally, all employees in the United Kingdom, Australia, and India receive a copy of Smartsheet’s then-current Statement, and are required to acknowledge it.

Modern Slavery Training

Smartsheet has implemented a modern slavery training to educate and promote employee awareness of potential modern slavery issues. This training is available to all employees, and is expected to be completed by employees working in the Procurement department globally and employees in the United Kingdom and Australia.

Modern Slavery Task Force

Smartsheet has a Modern Slavery Task Force (“Task Force”) which was established in 2023. Each year, members of the Task Force review Smartsheet’s compliance with legal requirements related to modern slavery, review Smartsheet’s current processes and procedures to prevent and combat modern slavery, and propose new processes and procedures to identify, prevent, and combat modern slavery as applicable. The Task Force convenes regularly and consults with compliance, procurement, legal, people operations, and other functions to ensure a consistent cross-functional approach.

Assessing Our Risks and Next Steps

The Task Force is responsible for assessing the effectiveness of actions taken to identify and prevent modern slavery in Smartsheet’s business operations and supply chain. In the fiscal year ended January 31, 2026, the Task Force:

- conducted meetings on a quarterly basis to assess Smartsheet’s risks of modern slavery, take action to address said risks, and evaluate the effectiveness of Smartsheet’s actions;
- strengthened its understanding of how Smartsheet’s customers, partners, and suppliers in India address modern slavery through their policies and programs;
- updated internal guidance for employees who are tasked with completing Environmental and Social Risk questionnaires from customers, partners, and suppliers;

- reviewed modern slavery training content to reflect emerging risks and good practice, and monitored completion rates to support effectiveness;
- continued to focus on the timeliness of supplier payments. Smartsheet acknowledges that the way we pay our suppliers may lead to increased risk of modern slavery. For example, late payment of invoices can lead to reduced cash flow for small businesses which may in turn lead to late or under payment for their workers; and
- continued to review and evaluate Smartsheet's vendor engagement processes in the context of addressing and preventing modern slavery.

During the fiscal year ended January 31, 2026, the reporting entity consulted with each of its subsidiaries listed in this Statement regarding Smartsheet's modern slavery risk management approach. Consultation was coordinated through the Task Force, which engaged subsidiary management globally through meetings to confirm each entity's operations and due-diligence actions. Drafts of this Statement were reviewed by subsidiary representatives, and feedback was incorporated into the consolidated statement.

The Task Force assessed that the actions taken in the fiscal year ended January 31, 2026, were appropriate and represented reasonable steps forward in bringing attention to and building Smartsheet's procedures related to combating modern slavery. In the fiscal year ending January 31, 2027, Smartsheet endeavors to continue its efforts to bring attention to and mitigate any potential issues related to modern slavery.

The members of the Task Force will continue to:

- review Smartsheet's compliance with legal requirements related to modern slavery;
- review Smartsheet's current processes and procedures to prevent and combat modern slavery; and
- propose new processes and procedures to identify, prevent, and combat modern slavery as applicable.
