Statement from Penny O'Reilly, Managing Director ManpowerGroup.

ManpowerGroup Australia has a deep heritage of operating at the highest level of integrity. Conducting business in an ethical and responsible manner is a key reason why we were named to the Ethisphere Institute's list of the World's Most Ethical Companies for the last 16 consecutive years and also named one of Fortune Magazine's most admired companies. Our corporate governance practices are intended to ensure principled goal setting, effective decision-making, management accountability, and appropriate monitoring of compliance and performance.

For over 75 years we have operated on the belief that meaningful, sustainable employment has the power to change the world. We have a zero-tolerance policy on forced labour, child labour, human trafficking and abusive treatment of workers. We will not knowingly do business with any company that benefits in any way from the trafficking or abusive treatment of workers or any form of slavery.

We continue to voice our concerns about and support action against human rights abuses in the world of work, particularly where it occurs under the guise of our own industry sector and through illegal use of our trusted brandnames.

ManpowerGroup does not engage in or support any deceptive, coercive or otherwise exploitative practices in our operations. We strive to promote our values and expectations of the same to our business partners and have taken the opportunity to review our human rights approach in line with the Modern Slavery Act.

In 2023 ManpowerGroup Australia launched our Diversity, Equity, Inclusion and Belonging (DEIB) Framework. A series of communities of interest were set up including a Responsible Procurement Working Group, and a key output from this group was the development and release of a formal Responsible Sourcing and Procurement Policy.

This sixth Statement outlines progress against our actions to assess and address the problem of modern slavery in 2025, and our plans for continuous improvement in future years. Our work continues.

Penny O'Reilly, Managing Director
Manpower, Experis & Right Management

Manpower and Experis – Recruitment Operations

Manpower and Experis service two key customer groups, known as clients and candidates. Clients are companies, businesses or organisations seeking workers. Candidates are individuals seeking work. As recruiters we facilitate the connection between clients and candidates through fulfillment of job orders. Our core business is to provide recruitment and staffing services to our customers, enhanced by our deep expertise and insights into the world of work.

Temporary or contingent recruitment refers to a candidate being offered employment with us, for placement into a work opportunity with our client. The placed candidate is technically known as an on-hired worker, meaning an individual engaged by Manpower or Experis whose services are on-hired to one of Manpower or Experis' clients. On-hired work is also commonly referred to as labour hire, staffing or agency work.

Permanent recruitment is where we have been engaged by our client to coordinate a recruitment campaign on their behalf to identify and place a candidate into a permanent role as the client's employee.

In all cases we ensure that the individual seeking work is fully informed about the nature of the employment circumstances and work opportunity being made available to them during the recruitment process. Furthermore, we will only offer work opportunities after they have first been qualified as genuine, decent and safe in line with our values.

For recruitment and staffing services performed by ManpowerGroup, customer satisfaction for both clients and candidates is the vital link to our success. An ethical and responsible recruitment framework is inherent within our business model and operations. All clients and candidates are given a clear and transparent understanding of the way in which we operate and what to expect when we deliver our services to them. Our recruitment consultants, administrators and managers are trained to operate within our ethical business framework and our corporate business functions provide the support they need to meet legal, regulatory and company obligations and standards.

From a commercial perspective, these minimum standards apply in our recruitment operations and are fundamental to our business model.

We charge our clients' fees for the service we provide in filling their 'job orders' and we require our clients to sign our terms of business or an equivalent contract beforehand. Our invoice is issued to the client organisation upon satisfactory fulfillment of their job orders or delivery of their workforce solution. We do not charge fees to individuals seeking work at any stage of the recruitment process. All candidates, including applicants, and workers of any type that interact with us are:

- Never charged fees under any circumstances or at any time before, during or after their contact with us
- Never coerced or deceived about the true nature of the work opportunity we may be able to offer them
- Always free to accept, decline or discontinue any work opportunity of their own freewill

Furthermore, all individual temporary, casual or permanent employees are provided with an agreement to read, understand and sign that sets out their specific work and compensation arrangements, including their rights, responsibilities and protections. ManpowerGroup is proud to set a high industry standard of compliance and risk management for our customers, in line with our values.

Full Lifecycle Workforce Solutions

Talent Solutions help organisations across Australia transform the way they source, manage and develop their workforces to ensure that they have the right talent today, and for the future. With the flexibility and scale of our sourcing capabilities combined with our expertise in career management, we provide global, integrated data-driven solutions across the talent lifecycle from talent attraction and acquisition, to upskilling and development, and retention at scale.

Talent Solutions MSP and RPO Operations

Recruitment Process Outsourcing (RPO)

Tailored solutions for permanent talent with a holistic approach to transforming how organisations source, manage and develop their workforce. The global leader in outsourcing services for large-scale recruiting and workforce-intensive initiatives.

Our RPO capabilities include Recruitment Strategy, Attract & Source, Screen Assess & Select, Market Intelligence, Employer Value Proposition, Applicant Tracking, Business Intelligence and Reporting.

Managed Service Provider (MSP) via TAPFIN

As TAPFIN is a trusted MSP partner, we efficiently manage the end-to-end lifecycle of the contingent labour process. By consolidating and funneling all activity through a single program management office, we streamline candidate and supplier vetting, supplier payments and workforce management.

In our MSP agreements, the promise is generally to manage the client's overall contingent workforce program as defined in the client Statement of Work (SOW). The SOW will generally include specific language:

- To provide integrated resource fulfillment services to assist clients in the management and automation of their contingent and permanent workforce requirements.
- To provide vendor management and related services to assist clients in the automation of their staffing management processes.

In our RPO agreements, we generally have multiple performance obligations, which relate to managing all or part of the client's permanent workforce recruitment program.

Again, these solutions are always delivered at the organisational level and apply the same standards whereby all fees charged are borne solely by clients, and never by candidates or workers. Transparency of work arrangements and recruitment process for individuals and candidates is fundamental and clear details are always provided.

When working with other recruitment and staffing providers we are conscious of maintaining high standards of compliance and oversight for our customers to ensure these business partners meet the same ethical and responsible recruitment standards we set for ourselves. We have contractual mechanisms in place to ensure that all our business partners will adhere to business principles, culture and values that are consistent and transparent with our own standards of social responsibility and sustainability. Where necessary we conduct due diligence, checks and reviews to confirm that our expectations are being met, and identify where any improvements may be needed.

The Right Management brand help organisations transform the way they develop their workforces to ensure that they have the right talent today, and for the future. We provide global, integrated data-driven solutions across the talent lifecycle from talent attraction and acquisition, to upskilling and development, and retention at scale.

Our service capabilities are Career Transition Services, Workforce Career Management, and Leadership Solutions.

Jonas Prising

CEO & Chairman, ManpowerGroup

"At ManpowerGroup, we believe we have a responsibility to be a positive contributor to societal change. We were founded on this principle almost 75 years ago, and it is just as true today. As an organization we need to continue stepping up and delivering for all our stakeholders – responsible business practices are expectations we strive to meet in all aspects of how we run our company."

2.2 Supply Chain

ManpowerGroup conducts its operations from leased office premises in a range of capital city and regional centres around Australia. In 2025 we continued to offer our internal workforce a hybrid working model with a structured work from home component.

Physical infrastructure needed includes office furniture, reception, kitchen and bathroom facilities, video conferencing and presentation aids, IT infrastructure ranging from telephone systems to server rooms, printers and copiers, laptops and mobile devices for staff, electronic access and security systems, software systems and technologies, car parking, heating and cooling equipment, energy and water utilities. Facilities management services such as cleaning, repairs and maintenance allow us to provide safe and healthy workplaces. A variety of consumables ranging from milk and filtered water to stationery supplies and business cards are purchased, along with courier, postal and storage services.

Services to support our operations include a range of internet based applications, platforms and online systems, including website design and delivery, advertising services, social media and communications tools, HR, financial, accounting and banking systems, sales and recruitment databases, applicant capture, tracking and associated management systems, candidate assessment, training and background checking software, electronic form delivery and reporting tools. Where staff are required to travel for work, we utilise airlines, car hire and provide hotel accommodation for staff required to be away from home.

Various licences, memberships and insurances are purchased, as is external advice for legal, workers compensation, safety, audit and assurance, specialist project consultants, public relations and incidental professional services. Staff amenities include benefits and recognition programs, health and wellbeing services, rewards to mark key occasions, awards and contributions.

ManpowerGroup uses suppliers drawn from a wide range of industry sectors, including many single sector suppliers. In 2025 our supplier numbers reduced substantially in line with changes in our client base.

ManpowerGroup Australia follows a decentralised buying process for all purchases. This is governed by our rigorous contract review and risk assessment policy. Ongoing suppliers are managed by contracts and an internal contact is designated to oversee each of these relationships. A range of individual role holders are authorised to make ad hoc purchases on behalf of the company within a defined scope and value as applicable to their role, and in line with company policies.

A significant segment of our supplier management activities is for a variety of recruitment and staffing service providers from within our own industry. Carefully selected by either ourselves or our clients, they deliver workforce related services as part of an overall MSP or RPO solution managed by ManpowerGroup under the Talent Solutions brand. Typically, these provider relationships are owned contractually by our clients and co-managed by us. Working with reputable business partners from within our own industry sector is an integral part of our business model. From time to time, we also utilise the services of specialist recruitment agencies when searching for talent to staff our business.

3.1 Risks of Modern Slavery – Operations

Operations Analysis – Manpower, Experis, Talent Solutions (RPO and MSP)

ManpowerGroup holds Labour Hire Licences and Employment Agent Licences in all states and territories that require them including Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, Western Australia and the Australian Capital Territory. As a licenced labour hire agency we meet our obligations for regular reporting to the regulators.

Our commitment to ethical business practices and the prevention of modern slavery is supported by our certified management systems for quality (ISO 9001), environmental management (ISO 14001), and occupational health and safety (ISO 45001). These internationally recognised frameworks embed robust governance, risk management, due diligence, and continuous improvement processes across our operations and supply chains. Together, they strengthen our ability to identify, assess, and mitigate modern slavery risks, while promoting accountability, transparency and responsible business conduct.

Unfortunately, unethical and exploitative operators exist who in no way reflect the values and practices of the legitimate employment placement industry sector. These 'sham' operators are of great concern to organisations like ManpowerGroup that are committed to operating legally and in the best interests of our clients, candidates and on-hired workforce.

In 2025 job scammers continued to impersonate our recruiters on social media messaging platforms. These scammers may include our company logo or other images in their messages to give the impression that they're legitimate. ManpowerGroup will never ask for payment for a job, and we mainly advertise our job openings on our official social media accounts and website. We maintain 'Don't Be a Victim of Job

Scams' messaging on all our official social media accounts and websites.

Cases of labour exploitation in Australia have been identified in industries with a high percentage of migrant workers holding temporary work visas such as working holiday makers, international students, skilled temporary workers, seasonal workers as well as illegal workers.

Within Australia industries which are considered to be at risk of forced labour exploitation include agriculture, construction, domestic work, meat processing, cleaning, hospitality and food services.

ManpowerGroup screens and monitors clients from these sectors. In 2025 Manpower provided services to clients from all but one of these sectors (domestic work).

Our pre-placement checks and site safety checks for host workplaces in these industries include travel and accommodation, commitment to human rights, freedom of access to our on-hired workers and allow any concerns about the provision of decent work to be noted. Certain response types are automatically flagged for further review.

Job seekers holding temporary work visas, working holiday makers and international students are welcomed across all our brands provided we can offer them roles within the limitations of their visa conditions. ManpowerGroup is not involved in the Australian Government's Temporary Work (International Relations) visa (subclass 403) – Pacific Australia Labour Mobility (PALM) stream.

Operations Analysis – Right Management

The nature of Right Management's operations delivering consulting services to organisations means that their exposure to modern slavery risk is within the supply chain rather than day to day operations.

3.2 Risks of Modern Slavery – Supply Chains

A small number of our tier 1 suppliers are from overseas, and the types of goods associated with these purchases are mainly IT related for computer software systems and platforms, and business consultancy services. Our overseas suppliers are predominantly from the United States, United Kingdom, New Zealand and Canada. We also sometimes enter into contracting arrangements with our associated entities overseas in jurisdictions such as India, Malaysia and the United Kingdom.

The types of goods purchased from our overseas suppliers do not appear on the List of Goods Produced by Child Labor or Forced Labor published by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of International Labor Affairs (ILAB).

Whilst ManpowerGroup does not directly cause or contribute to modern slavery practices, we remain committed to addressing links to human rights abuses within our operations and supply chain, no matter how small or remote these seem at the point of purchase.

We are mindful of tier 1 suppliers from industries considered to be at risk of forced labour exploitation within Australia (construction, cleaning, hospitality and food services).

Additionally, ManpowerGroup does not welcome unethical and exploitative operators being associated with the legitimate employment placement sector that we belong to. Given our level of interaction with business partners from within our own industry sector combined with our own deep industry knowledge and values, we are well positioned as an industry leader to highlight the risks of modern slavery practices and continue promoting best practice in the world of work.

It remains challenging to identify incidences of modern slavery in our supply chain, given the risk lies deeper down the chain in the mid-lower tiers and we recognise that a systems driven approach will be beneficial.

A significant project to upgrade our finance software was completed in 2023. The 'Procure to Payment' segment includes enhancements to streamline and automate our supplier onboarding process and supplier management capability. This will lead to improvements in our capability to understand, monitor and report on our tier 1 suppliers.

4. Actions to Assess and Address Modern Slavery Risks

Internal resources allocated to modern slavery are overseen by a senior member of ManpowerGroup's Senior Leadership Team. Their continued focus is to develop and embed a working knowledge of modern slavery within the organisation and recommend how best to implement the modern slavery reporting criteria into our business management systems and practices. They also support the business in responding correctly to customer enquiries for information about modern slavery risk in our operations.

Effectiveness Scale

We have defined and implemented effectiveness measures for our modern slavery actions.

Purpose This table provides a mechanism for ManpowerGroup Australia to assess the effectiveness of its actions to assess and address the risks of modern slavery practices in its operations and supply chains.
Context Modern slavery risk means the risk of harm to people rather than the risk to ManpowerGroup. Therefore effectiveness of actions means how well they control/reduce the risk of harm to people. This is more achievable within our operations than our supply chains.
Level of Effectiveness	Description
Effective	Modern slavery risk is directly controlled by the action. or The action substantially reduces the risk of harm to people.
Partially effective	Modern slavery risk is indirectly controlled by the action. and The action moderately reduces the risk of harm to people. It may rely on external factors such as knowledge retention, intention and ability to influence, be subject to limitations beyond our control (limitations may include language barriers, participation in training, reliance on self-reporting, system maturity or actions of others beyond our control).
Ineffective	Modern slavery risk is not controlled by the action. or The action does not reduce the risk of harm to people.

Commitment	Key Activity	Status
Supplier Self-Assessment Questionnaire (SAQ)	The SAQ has been integrated into the supplier review and engagement process for Talent Solutions panel suppliers that are engaged directly by ManpowerGroup. No concerns were identified.	Achieved
Supply Chain Business Partner Policy and Supplier Code of Conduct	Our website contains a copy of the Australian version of our Supply Chain Business Partner Policy and Supplier Code of Conduct, alongside our modern slavery clause. The ManpowerGroup Global policies and contact information are also available.	Underway
Education and Awareness	'Understanding Modern Slavery' module is included in a series of 'Legal - Lunch and Learn' webinars for staff and our Recruitment Fundamentals program. The module is also available on our Learning Management System. - Content about modern slavery is included in our onboarding program for on-hired workers. Our induction modules and booklets contain information about modern slavery awareness and outline the systems and processes we follow to uphold ethical employment standards, our grievance mechanism and how to get help if you or someone you know is at risk of modern slavery or human trafficking. - The material also references how to obtain independent advice from Anti-slavery Australia, My Blue Sky and Australian Red Cross.	Achieved and ongoing
Host Workplace Assessments	- Our process for assessing the safety of host workplaces prior to placement of our on-hired workers includes checks for indicators of modern slavery risks, including: - whether relocation, travel or accommodation is required - their commitment to human rights - freedom of access to our on-hired workers - if there are any concerns about the provision of decent work. Certain response types are automatically flagged for further review. - No concerns have been identified. The checks also act as conversation starters with clients as we help raise awareness and set standards for best practice in our industry.	Achieved and ongoing

Human Rights

Our global Human Rights Policy is straightforward: We expect ManpowerGroup employees and business partners to conduct business in a manner that respects Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work. We have a responsibility to comply with all applicable laws in the countries where we do business. Where differences exist between local laws and our standards, the higher standard will prevail.

The policy outlines our principles:

- We Have Zero Tolerance Toward Forced Labor and Modern Slavery
- We Will Not Tolerate Racism, Discrimination or Harassment
- We Support the Right to Freedom of Association and Collective Bargaining
- We Protect the Rights of Children and Young Workers and Do Not Engage in Child Labor

The policy also outlines our approach to remediation:

- Should any situation arise where it is determined that individuals' rights have been violated, either through our own practices or those of our business partners, we will take the necessary steps to stop the practice and mitigate the impact to the greatest extent possible.

Reporting Mechanism

ManpowerGroup maintains an Ethics Hotline, a 24-hour secure hotline available to employees and the general public to report suspected, planned or actual violations of the ManpowerGroup Code of Business Conduct and Ethics, the law or any other workplace misconduct. This global mechanism is available in range of languages and provides a wide range of country access codes to ensure access is readily available to anyone worldwide who has a concern to report, including our business partners, suppliers and their workers. Concerns may be raised anonymously via telephone or the internet.

No concerns about human rights or labour exploitation were raised through the Ethics Hotline in 2025. We continue to promote a high level of awareness of the mechanism internally and externally, whilst recognising this might not reach those who may need it most within the mid-lower tiers of our supply chains. Therefore, we do not rely on activity through the Hotline when assessing our modern slavery risk.

5. Assessing the Effectiveness of Our Actions

Directors and senior management representatives from our reporting entities conduct an annual review of our actions to assess and address modern slavery risks in our operations and supply chain. Progress against our actions is reviewed and assessed for effectiveness in line with our newly defined effectiveness measures outlined above. This includes improvements and next steps, in line with our goals to reduce and eventually eliminate any links to modern slavery practices as part of a concerted effort by the business world.

6. Consultation Process

Throughout the reporting period covered by this joint statement, regular consultation and updates took place with each of the entities covered by this statement. The consultation process was led by the senior member of ManpowerGroup's Senior Leadership Team responsible for ManpowerGroup's response to the Modern Slavery Act. The consultation undertaken included regular briefings to directors and senior management from each entity. Consultation was also undertaken with the relevant internal stakeholders for each of our actions.
