OUR SUPPLY CHAINS

The main types of goods and services TasPorts procures fall within the following categories:

As at 30 June 2020, TasPorts had just under 300 employees, with 228 of these employees being full time.

SET

SET has only a few suppliers as most supplies are incurred by the relevant joint venture parties to which the costs relate and as such most are captured by TasPorts' supply chain analysis.

MODERN SLAVERY RISKS

EMPLOYMENT

TasPorts' senior management oversees all employment contracting which is conducted in accordance with all laws and awards. All employees' terms and conditions of employment are governed either by a contract of employment or an industrial instrument and are all paid above minimum wage.

TasPorts has an employee Code of Conduct and a Workplace Behaviours Policy that provides a framework for making decisions and engaging in behaviours that are ethical and appropriate. TasPorts' Whistleblowing Policy and Public Interest Disclosure Policy and Procedures aim to encourage employees to report wrongdoings by TasPorts by protecting those who make a disclosure from determinantal action.

Through its due diligence process conducted in the previous reporting period TasPorts identified that it did not have supervision of third-party workforce terms and conditions of employment and noted this issue for review and improvement in future reporting years. TasPorts made enquiries with its largest third-party workforce provider to ensure that their workforce is paid in accordance with relevant enterprise agreements for the duties being performed for TasPorts. Despite the labour hire risk, TasPorts considers its risk of modern slavery practices within its workforce as low, as most of TasPorts' labour hire involves Tasmanian based skilled labour which reduces the risk of modern slavery in this area.

PROVISION AND DELIVERY OF SERVICES

TasPorts recognises that maritime ports are a potential entry point into Australia for trafficking of persons. However, TasPorts has comprehensive security control measures established to mitigate the risk of organised crime and criminal activities of such a nature in its ports and maintains strong working relationships with Border Protection Agencies.

TasPorts considers the occurrence of human trafficking occurring at its ports to be a low risk.

TasPorts also acknowledges that it is a known issue that crews on some vessels from other jurisdictions using a port may be forced to work in sub-standard conditions onboard vessels. TasPorts is aware of the Maritime Labour Conventions and encourages its employees to raise concerns in relation to the welfare of seafarers onboard the vessels, complaints made to them whilst onboard or whilst at the port and to report these incidents to the Australian Maritime Safety Authority (AMSA).

TasPorts runs a Port Welfare Committee which members include a number of port users and AMSA. The aim of the committee is to improve the welfare of seafarers at our ports.

TasPorts has worked closely with its port users to deal with the operational issues brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic and made clear its updated policies and procedures.

CHARITABLE/SPONSORSHIP ACTIVITIES

TasPorts directs its sponsorship to local organisations, community events and projects with a focus on improving marine safety, preserving and promoting the maritime history of Tasmania, contributing to the preservation of Tasmania's unique marine environments, and enabling Tasmania's ongoing social and economic prosperity.

TasPorts provides support to an organisation which has a focus on the welfare of seafarers which operates from a number of our ports. This organisation provides another level of monitoring of the treatment of seafarers that visit these ports.

SUPPLY CHAINS

The majority of TasPorts' suppliers are Tasmanian based and the remainder (excluding 7 suppliers) are Australian based suppliers (see chart below).

The 7 suppliers based outside Australia involved:

- 3 companies based in the Netherlands;
- 2 companies based in Singapore;
- 1 company based in New Zealand; and
- 2 companies based in Canada.

Of the suppliers identified as being based overseas, TasPorts has assessed them as low risk due to the locations and the political, socio-economic and legal factors which are present in these countries which reduce the prevalence of modern slavery. Further, the goods and services purchased from these suppliers are within industries that are also lower risk involving skilled labour.

- Tasmanian Based Suppliers
- Australian Based Suppliers (excl. Tas)
- International Based Suppliers

As a result of the supply-based risk assessment that was undertaken for TasPorts of its 973 suppliers in the financial year ending 30 June 2020 and TasPorts' review of its additional 266 new suppliers for the financial year ending 30 June 2021, TasPorts was able to identify aspects of its supply chains and operations as posing the highest risks in relation to modern slavery.

The vast majority of agreements with our suppliers are project specific, short term arrangements. However, a large proportion of the agreements we enter into are with previously engaged suppliers.

TasPorts has identified the following areas of its supply chain as being at a higher risk to modern slavery practices:

- maintenance, security and cleaning service providers due to the nature of the industry and lack of oversight of the terms and conditions of employment;
- purchase of
 - PPE;
 - parts of infrastructure projects;
 - IT equipment,
 due to the likely location of the manufacturing of these products;
- purchasing of catering due to the nature of the sourcing of suppliers from the agriculture industry.

Despite these higher risk categories, TasPorts' suppliers were generally considered to be relatively low risk considering they are largely based within Australia. However, TasPorts acknowledges that some of its direct suppliers may have suppliers that source products from overseas which poses a risk of modern slavery practices which may be difficult to address. TasPorts is committed to working with our direct suppliers to identify and address this risk. It is intended that the policies and procedures we have implemented to help combat modern slavery may assist us in influencing further down our supply chain. For instance, our Supplier Code of Conduct requires our direct suppliers to encourage their suppliers to adhere to our Code of Conduct.

TasPorts worked closely with its various tenants during this reporting period to reduce the effect of the COVID-19 pandemic on our tenants' operations, by providing rental concessions that were in some cases, beyond that required by legislation.

BIL

BIL's supply chains were analysed as part of TasPorts' supply chain analysis. TasPorts considers the main risks of modern slavery in BIL's operations and supply chains to be in relation to:

- the purchase of parts for its vessel which although purchased from Australian suppliers may be sourced from overseas;
- the operation of its vessel which is contracted to a third party via an agreement that predates the Modern Slavery legislation. However, TasPorts proposes to issue a questionnaire to the operator to assist in determining the risk of modern slavery occurring within that entity. Further, prior to entering the agreement with the third party, TasPorts was advised that the third party's crew consisted of an all Australian crew and was provided with details of the relevant enterprise agreements covering their employees; and
- the contracting of third parties to operate a vessel while the John Duigan was out of service considering that TasPorts did not have oversight of the third parties' terms of employment. TasPorts proposes to require modern slavery clauses in these types of agreements in the future.

ACTIONS TO CONTROL RISKS

ACTIONS TO CONTROL/ASSESS/ ADDRESS THESE RISKS

ASSESSMENT OF SUPPLIERS

TasPorts' assessment of its supply chain and identification of the higher risk industries will enable TasPorts to prioritise due diligence processes in future years. TasPorts will provide questionnaires to those deemed to be its highest risk suppliers in the financial year ending 2022.

The questionnaire is designed to assess our suppliers' policies and practices on modern slavery to assist in the assessment of the likelihood of modern slavery practices occurring within particular suppliers.

If TasPorts is alerted to, or identifies, a potential modern slavery risk within its operations or supply chain, it may issue a questionnaire to gain a greater insight into the suppliers operations and the policies and procedures it has in place to address modern slavery. Depending on the results of the questionnaire, or if repeated attempts to obtain answers to the questionnaire go unanswered TasPorts will consider taking steps to terminate the relationship and if necessary, raise the issue with the appropriate authorities.

UPDATED AGREEMENTS

TasPorts has updated its various supplier contracts to include a modern slavery clause requiring the supplier comply with our Supplier Code of Conduct, and notes that a material breach of the Supplier Code of Conduct will be considered a material breach of the relevant agreement. Suppliers are also required to warrant that they have not been convicted of any offence involving modern slavery.

TasPorts has negotiated the inclusion of a modern slavery clause into with its joint venture partner to mitigate the risk of modern slavery in SET's operations and supply chains.

The use of TasPorts' various ports is conditional on port users complying with TasPorts' Standard Terms and Conditions of Port Access which are available on TasPorts' website. In this reporting period, TasPorts introduced a modern slavery clause enabling TasPorts to reject an application, or withdraw permission to access, its ports if it becomes aware of any contravention of modern slavery legislation by the owner, charterer and/or manager of the vessel unless they are able to demonstrate to TasPorts that the contravention has been remedied.

In the next reporting period, TasPorts intends to include a modern slavery clause in its leases of land at its various ports.

POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

TasPorts has introduced a Modern Slavery Policy which applies to the entire organisation (including contractors engaged and undertaking work on behalf of TasPorts). The policy aims to eradicate modern slavery risks and provide information and guidance to our employees on how to recognise and deal with modern slavery issues.

TasPorts has also implemented a Supplier Code of Conduct which prescribes a set of minimum standards for doing business with TasPorts and is available on its website at www.tasports.com.au/corporate. The Code of Conduct enables TasPorts to check compliance with the requirements of the Code of Conduct and encourages its Suppliers to implement their own binding guidelines for ethical behaviour.

TasPorts has a number of other policies and procedures which are aimed at combating wrongdoing which will also have the effect of mitigating the risks of modern slavery within its operations and supply chains including:

- Whistleblower Policy;
- Fraud and Corruption Policy;
- Fraud and Corruption Procedure;
- Gifts, Benefits and Hospitality Policy;
- Public Interest Disclosure Policy and Procedure;
- Conflicts of Interest Policy.

TasPorts' Whistleblowing Policy provides an avenue for past and present employees or any other person to anonymously report any wrongdoings including any concerns that they may have in relation to modern slavery. All reports of modern slavery would be fully investigated.

TasPorts' policies are available on its intranet and are communicated to its employees through various workshops usually conducted face to face annually. These workshops did not proceed in the 2021 financial year, however, TasPorts intends to re-commence its annual workshop for its employees at each of its sites across Tasmania in the next reporting period, focusing on TasPorts' Whistleblower Policy, Public Interest Disclosure Policy and Procedure and Modern Slavery Policy.

TRAINING

TasPorts has raised awareness within its business in relation to modern slavery by providing updates about the commencement of TasPorts' Modern Slavery Policy, Supplier Code of Conduct and the new modern slavery clauses in its various agreements.

TasPorts has also released an article and training video on its intranet for all employees to view. TasPorts is considering making this video available in future reporting periods to all contractors as part of the contractor induction program. In the next few reporting years, TasPorts intends to focus on providing targeted training to employees negotiating contracts and those working portside who may be able to identify risks of modern slavery from visiting vessels.

EFFECTIVENESS OF ACTIONS

TasPorts' Board has overall responsibility for ensuring that all those under its control comply with its Modern Slavery Policy.

The General Counsel/Company Secretary has primary and day-to-day responsibility for implementing TasPorts' Modern Slavery Policy, and for monitoring its use and effectiveness. The policy, and TasPorts' internal control systems and procedures, will be subject to regular reviews to provide assurance that they are effective in countering modern slavery.

TasPorts' internal Audit Risk Management Committee (ARMCo) approves and reviews TasPorts' policies. In future reporting periods, TasPorts' Executive Leadership Team will review the effectiveness of the policies and procedures implemented annually.

As TasPorts is proposing to embark on a series of staff training workshops over the future reporting periods, TasPorts proposes to issue a questionnaire to these staff at least 3 months after the completion of the sessions to ensure that staff understood the training and have retained the information. The results of these questionnaires may provide direction for further training to ensure the training provided is effective. These future workshops will also be used as an opportunity to gain insights from employees as to whether they believe that the policies and procedures are working to combat modern slavery in our operations and supply chains and to identify any risks that have not been addressed.

PROCESS OF CONSULTATION

Senior management from BIL, KIP and TasPorts were consulted in the preparation of this statement and the Company Secretary of each of TasPorts' subsidiaries is aware of the content of this modern slavery statement.

This statement has been approved by the Board of BIL and KIP and was endorsed by the Board of TasPorts on 16 December 2021.
