3. Risk of Modern Slavery in Our Operations and Supply Chains

We are mindful of the risks of modern slavery practices in the operations and supply chains of a logistics and forwarding business, which are a critical concern in today's global business environment. Identifying and mitigating these risks is essential for adhering to modern slavery regulations and upholding ethical business practices. The risks associated with modern slavery practices in logistics and forwarding businesses and their supply chain includes:

- Supplier and Subsidiary Risks: Vulnerability in the supply chain, particularly when dealing with suppliers in countries with weaker labour protections. Lack of visibility into labour practices within complex supply chains.
- Subcontracting Risks: Risk of subcontractors further down the chain engaging in modern slavery practices without oversight.
- Human Trafficking Risks: Vulnerability of migrant workers to human trafficking and forced labour due to their immigration status.

- Lack of Due Diligence: Insufficient screening of suppliers, subcontractors, and subsidiaries can unintentionally involve the reporting entity in modern slavery practices.
- Lack of Reporting Mechanisms: Lack of suitable reporting channels may discourage works from reporting cases of modern slavery.

4. Actions Taken to Assess, and Address Identified Modern Slavery Risks■ Policy Related to Modern Slavery

Under the LD Group's philosophy "to deliver high-quality services that will help make the world a better place for people and nature for generations to come," LAU Gr. aims to realise Environmental, social and governance (ESG) management—achieving a sustainable society—and continues to promote management that respects human rights based on the Group Human Rights Policy formulated by the LD Group as the highest policy related to human rights. The Group Human Rights Policy* supports the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, the UN Global Compact, the International Labour Organization (ILO) Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, understands that the human rights of all people affected in our business activities must be respected, and declares that it will endeavour to ensure that the dignity of people related to our business is protected and respect is given to each other.

The Group Human Rights Policy prohibits forced labour and child labour, including bonded labour and human trafficking, and we do not tolerate modern slavery based on this policy. We also expect our stakeholders to comply with and support the Group Human Rights Policy.

With the basic conduct policy of "respect for human rights, compliance with regulations and laws, and connection to society" under the Group Human Rights Policy, we act based on the Group Code of Conduct, which is used as a reference by all employees. If any act that deviates from this Code of Conduct is found, it is reported to a supervisor immediately or reported through the whistleblowing system.

■ LD Group and Supply Chains' Initiatives to Prevent Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

• Human rights due diligence

To promote management that respects human rights, LAU Gr. conducts human rights due diligence based on the Group Human Rights Policy, identifies human rights risks in the company and its supply chains, assesses human rights risks, and applies the PDCA cycle to mitigate the risks. These initiatives help us constantly address issues, promote action plans throughout the LD Group, disclose them to the public, and improve them.

• Human rights risk assessment and monitoring

In 2022, the LD Group conducted global desktop research in the logistics industry in cooperation with an NGO organisation to analyse and summarise human rights risks. This research pointed out global initiatives on forced labour and child labour as imperatives. As a result, we established the Group Human Rights Policy in April 2023 and clarified the Group's stance of not tolerating forced labour and child labour. We also expect our stakeholders to support the Group Human Rights Policy.

• Remedy mechanism

The LD Group has a remedy mechanism in case of human rights violations. The Compliance Reporting System, which has been translated into 20 languages with posters displayed at each office, is a reporting system* that allows employees to make contact from both inside and outside the company and ensures the confidentiality of all reports. Its corresponding internal committee addresses reports properly and checks if their action plans are effective. Reports and their action plans are shared at the LD Executive Officer's Meetings.

Regarding reports, their facts are investigated according to the predetermined procedure, and the investigation results are sent to those who made reports via letter or email.

If a violation is confirmed by the investigation or review, it is handled in accordance with the Group Human Rights Policy and Code of Conduct. We also analyse the cause of the violation and take corrective measures to prevent it from happening again.

In FY2024, 15 cases were reported across the LD Group, all of which were addressed.

■ Measures for FY2022

The LD Group has been in cooperation with an NGO organisation since October 2022. In monthly consultations with the NGO, we summarised our past human rights initiatives while obtaining external professional opinions on them. We also conducted global desktop research in collaboration with a UK research organisation, which organised global human rights issues from the perspective of an external specialist organisation, and also human rights issues in the logistics industry.

■ Measures for FY2023

In 2023, the LD Group took the following initiatives to further promote respect for human rights.

- The Group has promoted understanding of respect for human rights through global training for officers and employees.
- The Group conducted a global desktop research on human rights among Group companies (81 companies) that has been ongoing since fiscal 2022, and extracted and organized problems and issues. We then conducted SAQ* for each issue of group companies (27 companies) that were deemed to be at high risk. We are reviewing the results of the desk research and SAQ, considering the severity and likelihood of occurrence, and are taking action on issues that need to be addressed.

* SAQ: Self-Assessment Questionnaire

■ Measures for FY 2024

- In FY 2024, we conducted human rights training for 41 newly appointed global executives, all of whom took the training. The training covers modern slavery laws in the UK and Australia. We also worked to promote understanding of respect for human rights as part of the code of conduct training program for all employees.

-In addition, based on the results of the SAQ conducted in FY 2023, we promoted efforts to address issues that were identified, taking into consideration their severity and likelihood of occurrence. Specifically, we carried out inspections and risk reduction efforts regarding the accepting of overseas technical intern trainees in Japan. In addition, we have started publishing annual statements in response to the Australian Modern Slavery Act.

■ Training and Education

The LD Group regularly provides education on human rights. For the Code of Conduct, which describes the behaviour to be carried out by each of the employees based on the Human Rights Policy, an educational program is held annually for all employees. Ethics Month, which is held every November, introduces case studies on human rights to raise awareness of human rights issues. In the educational program implemented globally in FY2024, 35,288 people participated, with a participation rate of 96.5%.

All LAU Gr. managers comply with the LD Group Code of Conduct and have signed a pledge to observe relevant laws and internal regulations. All our employees are also aware of the LD Group Code of Conduct and complies with it.

From 2025 onwards, The Group will continue to globally implement training centred on newly appointed officers, and promote understanding of respect for human rights as one of the programmes in the Code of Conduct training for all employees.

■ Goal Setting for FY2025

- LD Group will promote the process of human rights due diligence with new group companies from fiscal 2023 onwards. And, the Group will promote action on issues to be addressed that have been identified, taking into account their severity and likelihood of occurrence, based on the confirmation of the results of the SAQ conducted in FY2023. Specifically, we plan to carry out inspections and risk reduction measures regarding the handling of foreign technical trainees at business establishments that will be different from those in fiscal 2024.

- The Group will continue to implement training centred on newly appointed officers, and promote understanding of respect for human rights as one of the programmes in the Code of Conduct training for all employees.

LAU Gr.'s long-term goal is to minimise modern slavery risks as much as possible by investigating, identifying and improving human rights risks in cooperation with the LD Group in the supply chains. To promote the initiatives determined to eliminate modern slavery, we will strive to raise awareness of these risks by working with all stakeholders, including employees, business partners and suppliers.

5. Assessing the Effectiveness of Our Actions

LAU Gr. recognises the importance of evaluating the effectiveness of our endeavours to mitigate modern slavery. Although we have not identified any instances of modern slavery within the supply chains we engage with, we acknowledge the critical need for a comprehensive assessment of our entire business operations to ensure the continued integrity of our supply chain.

LAU Gr. continues to monitor and improve its actions toward mitigating the risks of modern slavery by:

- Review Policies and Procedures: Evaluate the policies and procedures we have in place to address modern slavery risks. Ensure that they align with legal requirements and industry best practices.
- Employee Training and Awareness: Assess the effectiveness of employee training programs on modern slavery. Gather feedback from employees to gauge the quality of training.
- Risk Assessment: Re-evaluate our risk assessment processes. Identify any emerging risks or changes in the business environment that may impact modern slavery risks. Make adjustments to risk assessments as needed.

■ Cooperation with an NGO Organisation

This statement on modern slavery was prepared, following talks with the Global Alliance for Sustainable Supply Chain, a third-party non-governmental organisation.

6. Consultation with Reporting Entities

We consulted with each reporting entity included in the statement during the preparation of the joint statement. Throughout this reporting period, we actively engaged with each reporting entity to establish expectations, raise awareness, and gain insights into our approach for mitigating modern slavery risks. We don't own or control any other entities.
