Opening Statement

dnata Australia is a value driven organisation and we have a zero-tolerance approach to Modern Slavery in all its forms. We are committed to developing processes to equip our employees with the knowledge to identify any signs of Modern Slavery.

We recognise the importance of increasing awareness in regards to Modern Slavery as it can take on many forms of human rights abuses and exploitative practices. We also recognise that Modern Slavery is a crime and a fundamental violation of human rights. We are committed to a transparent approach to business practices to help remove the risk of Modern Slavery throughout our supply chain.

Introduction

Modern Slavery includes trafficking in persons, slavery, servitude, forced marriage, forced labour, debt bondage, the worst forms of child labour, and deceptive recruiting for labour or services (Modern Slavery). Modern Slavery is a criminal activity, a gross violation of fundamental human rights and a growing concern globally.

Recognising that every area of business has the potential to be impacted by this issue, the Group has implemented a policy for the prevention, detection, and reporting of Modern Slavery in its business and supply chains.

dnata Australia is committed to preventing acts of Modern Slavery and human trafficking from occurring within its own business or in any of its supply chains and expects the same high standards from all its contractors, suppliers, and other business partners.

Our key operations and supply chains, including where we assess the highest risk of Modern Slavery to present itself, is described below:

- Cargo & Ground Handling Operations – In some areas of our operations, we rely on third party recruitment agencies. This could present a risk of exposure to hidden labour.
- Cargo & Ground Handling Operations – We source goods from the textile industry. Depending on the jurisdiction of origin, these products could present a higher risk of being manufactured via forced labour.

In order to manage the above risks, we assess our exposure to Modern Slavery through our supplier due diligence processes.

Actions Taken to Combat Slavery Risks

dnata Australia assesses and manages the above potential risks by maintaining consistent and high standards of due diligence and risk mitigation processes. This allows us to monitor for and avoid Modern Slavery in all environments in which dnata Australia operates in, including developing and implementing those policies, processes and actions discussed below.

As we are subsidiaries of the Emirates Group, we are required and proud to adhere to the Emirates Group's policy on Modern Slavery. A copy of the Group's policy on Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking can be found on our website.

Due Diligence Processes for Combatting Slavery

We recognise that we cannot unilaterally solve the problem of Modern Slavery. However, to aid our efforts, we have processes in place to assess risk, undertake due diligence and effect remediation. Our due diligence processes are supported by our whistle-blower protection policy which encourages 'speaking out' against illegal and unsafe practices.

We are part of a group that is continuously evolving and improving. As part of this journey, practices and procedures will be adapted over time as their effectiveness is periodically reviewed. Our current due diligence practices consist of getting to know our suppliers through our supplier onboarding procedures, identifying suppliers where there is a known heightened risk of Modern Slavery.
