INTRODUCTION

This is the fourth Modern Slavery Statement of SCAPH and we are aware of the risks and the effects that modern slavery can have on our operations and supply chains.

SCAPH recognizes that modern slavery can occur in many forms, which include, but are not limited to slavery, servitude, human trafficking, forced marriage, forced labour, debt bondage, child labour and deceptive recruiting for labour or services.

At SCAPH we are committed to ensure that we meet our obligations under the Act and we will implement risk mitigation measures if required in order to combat any form of modern slavery. We are also aware that we cannot control the conduct of our suppliers, but we expect all who have or seek to have a business relationship with us, to familiarise themselves with our modern slavery commitments and to act in a way that is consistent with our values.

SCAPH has a zero tolerance towards inaction of any form of modern slavery and human trafficking, as we believe in respecting human rights in everything we do.

Our commitment to our employees, customers and suppliers is very clear and we will always treat people in our business and supply chain respectfully and fairly. We pride ourselves on our commitment to good corporate governance and adherence to legislative requirements, which provides a sound platform to address and implement the requirements of the Act.

We continually engaged with key stakeholders within our organisation and supply chain in order to ensure that modern slavery does not occur in our business sphere.

Entities that were excluded and were not subject to the due diligence process, include Legal Entities, Auditors, Banks and Government entities which made up 14 of the 38 entities.

RISK OF MODERN SLAVERY IN OUR OPERATIONS & SUPPLY CHAIN

Our internal assessment outcome on SCAPH as a JV Partner and investor identified that we have a low risk of modern slavery occurring in our workplace and we do not directly cause or contribute to modern slavery practices.

SCAPH does recognise that suppliers we use and the business operations that we invest in are exposed. We understand that the environmental, social and governance (ESG) risks relating to suppliers will vary depending on their industry, geographic location and company size. Therefore, the scope of our suppliers, vendors and partners' policies, processes and systems are expected to reflect their specific ESG risks.

Some of the services procured and some of the goods invested in, either directly or indirectly, are linked to high-risk industries and/or high-risk goods. In some instances, investment in these goods or procurement of services, take place in high-risk countries.

DUE DILLIGENCE

Throughout FY23 SCAPH continued to apply our policies and procedures relating to corporate governance and modern slavery by acting in accordance with our ethical approach to business practices.

Due diligence was conducted prior to engaging all new suppliers which included:

- Identifying if they are aware of Modern Slavery and if are required to report under the conditions of the act.
- Modern Slavery check sheets are completed in-line with our legal and governance requirements as well as our Modern Slavery Policy to identify potential for breaches or abuses of fundamental human rights.
- When "red flagged" are identified we conduct additional due diligence on the relevant suppliers to ensure there are active measures in place to remedy and rectify the situation and that they are working on eliminating potential of re-occurrence in future.
- Negotiating to incorporate modern slavery clauses in new supplier contracts and on renewal of contracts where possible; and
- Applying our anti-bribery and corruption checks sheets prior to signing new contracts and appointing new vendors.

SCAPH further monitored and conducted diligence on our existing vendors medium and high-risk vendors/suppliers, where "red flags" were identified in previous years.

These risks include:

- High risk Services that include Corporate Services (computers, laptops, mobile phones, printing equipment and services)
- High risk industries: Extractive/Mining and Basic Metal Production.
- High risk countries include China, Turkey, Indonesia, and India.
- The high-risk goods include Coal.
- The goods themselves containing components of high-risk goods or being from a high-risk industry or manufactured in a high-risk country.
- Possible engagement of low skilled migrants within property management such and office services.

Our Modern Slavery Committee reviewed Modern Slavery Reports from our existing vendors and suppliers, updated and created fit-for-purpose questionnaires for high and medium risk vendors and worked collaboratively with identified suppliers to establish:

- If existing suppliers had any changes in their Modern Slavery Act reporting requirements.
- If new suppliers were required to comply to the reporting requirements of the Modern Slavery Act.
- If existing suppliers did conform to compliance requirements.
- If suppliers achieved their previous year commitments.
- If suppliers were conducting third party due diligence.
- What mitigating actions were put in place to eliminate breaches.
- If any breaches were identified and what steps were taken to correct the breaches.

A full brief of the due diligence process, progress and findings is shared with Directors and team members via email and all queries are responded to accordingly. The Board of Directors is aware the outcomes, their responsibilities and they are aware of our company's commitment to ensure adherence and responding to activities that will put our company(s) at risk.

We note an immediate supplier has identified modern slavery in its own supply chain and we will continue to closely monitor, and work with, that supplier.

INTERNAL COMMITMENT AND RISK MANAGEMENT

OUR POLICIES:

SCAPH shares the wider SC Group's Corporate Mission Statement (Management Principles and Activity Guidelines) based on the business philosophy of SC's founder, Masatomo Sumitomo (1585-1652) passed down and followed faithfully for more than 400 years. This philosophy represents the fundamental and ultimate value standard of the SC Group.

The Corporate Mission Statement clearly states that the SC Group respects the personality of each individual and places prime importance on integrity and sound management.

SCAPH has the following documents in place to assist in mitigating human rights/modern slavery risks in our business and supply chains:

- Compliance Policy and Compliance Manual.
- Whistle-blower Policy and Whistle-blower Procedure; and
- Modern Slavery Policy and Modern Slavery Procedure

TOOLS:

As part of our continued efforts to strengthen our whistleblower program we have added additional ways for staff members or the public to "speak up" (including if they have human rights concerns pertaining to SCAPH).

No instances of modern slavery were reported within our entity through our independent whistle blowing reporting process for 4 Years.

SCAPH is satisfied with assessing modern slavery risks and responses by collaboration and undertaking desktop due diligence and believe that no further external compliance support tools are considered necessary at this stage.

CREATING AWARENESS:

- Shared relevant updates on Modern Slavery progress with the SCAPH team;
- Shared modern slavery articles and continued to create awareness within the SCAPH team.
- Re-communicated familiarisation of the Governance Documents with Team members which include the Modern Slavery Policies and Procedures as well as the Whistleblower Policy and Procedure.
- Sent information and links to vendors/suppliers to create awareness.

ASSESSMENT AND EFFECTIVENESS:

During the last financial year SCAPH had a combined supply chain made up of approximately 38 local and international entities, which include suppliers from the following sectors: Information, Communications and Technology; Property Services (including Facilities Management, Utilities, Cleaning, Waste Management and Security); Consulting Services; Office Supplies; and Joint Venture Partners.

Due diligence was conducted on 15 of these entities. Entities that were excluded and were not subject to the due diligence process, include Legal Entities, Auditors, Banks and Government entities which made up 14 of the 38 entities.

To date we have not identified any internal instances of modern slavery within our supply chain and we are monitoring an immediate supplier to ensure they rectify the situation within their group and supply chain.

The outcome of our due diligence and questionnaires:

- All Australian reporting suppliers/vendors confirmed their compliance with the requirements of the Act and provided the necessary responses and evidence to support this.
- Notification from Australian Reporting suppliers of application of mitigation actions/checks to ensure that supply chains and third-party suppliers adhere to compliance requirements.
- Australian non-reporting entities advised us if there were changes in their reporting requirements and advised that they are aware of modern slavery risks and commit to continue to monitor their supply chains in the best interests of their business.
- International Suppliers that are not required to report within Australia but have confirmed that they are aware of Modern Slavery and currently have responsible sourcing policies, as well as standards in place to mitigate risks.
- As well as international suppliers advising that they comply with the relevant Modern Slavery Acts within their jurisdiction.

Due to the changing business environment SCAPH believes in continuous improvement and growth, to demonstrate progress with addressing modern slavery risks in its operations and supply chain.

We strive to implement effective measures to eliminate risks, should they arise. In the instance where a potential occurrence of modern slavery is identified, either internally or externally, then appropriate corrective action will be taken in line with the Company's response plan.

PLAN FOR REMEDIATION:

One instance of an immediate supplier has identified modern slavery in its own supply chain, and we will continue to closely monitor, and work with, that supplier by engaging and following up on progress on their work to eliminate and remedy the situation.

SCAPH is committed to continued work with suppliers to remain compliant and to eliminate any possible occurrence of modern slavery from its supply chain.

CONSULTATION:

There is continuous communication between the Modern Slavery Committee and the Directors of SCAPH, whom are also the Directors for SCAP Oaky Creek Pty Ltd and the listed companies above. Any updates relating to business reporting, including update on Modern Slavery information is shared with all relevant staff by the Modern Slavery Committee during monthly team meetings.

An external legal team was consulted as and when required and further awareness was created by sharing information on modern slavery. The Modern Slavery Committee established meetings and provided feedback to Management on an ad-hoc basis.

A modern slavery data base for all SCAPH Vendors and Suppliers is in place with a full history on responses, compliance requirements and individual vendor communication. This includes information on due diligence actions and responses for reference.

WAY FORWARD:

SCAPH is committed to continue to work collaboratively with vendors and suppliers to eliminate any possible occurrence of modern slavery within our business and supply chain. We aim to:

- 1) Increase our communication, awareness and verification program, which confirms that suppliers have received and understood our position regarding modern slavery.
- 2) Continue to use recognised accredited suppliers where possible.
- 3) Create further internal awareness by making human rights programs available to employees.
- 4) Continued reviewing of supplier contracts to include a modern slavery clause at the next available opportunity (for example during contract renewal) if practicable and appropriate, and introduced the inclusion of a modern slavery clause in all new contracts and agreements, as per our Procedural requirements.
- 5) Further assess and support low risk suppliers.
- 6) Work with and conduct ongoing investigation on high and medium risk suppliers to further review Tier 2 vendors/suppliers.
- 7) As part of our continuous improvement commitment, we will ensure our smaller non reporting entities are aware of the Modern Slavery Act and ensure support and provide further information as required.
- 8) Our team will remain vigilant and continue to adhere to our legislative requirements by consulting with partners, suppliers, vendors and workers.
- 9) Continue to monitor the MS Act review to update Modern Slavery Policy and Procedures.
