Foreword

This is NEXTDC's Modern Slavery Statement, made in accordance with the Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth), for the financial year ended 30 June 2023. It outlines the steps we have taken in continuing to understand, identify and address modern slavery risks in NEXTDC's operations and supply chain. NEXTDC requires ethical and transparent labour practices and, consistent with these principles, takes a zero-tolerance approach to any form of modern slavery.

The NEXTDC Board approved this statement on 12-December 2023. All inquiries or feedback on this statement should be directed to NEXTDC's Procurement and Compliance team at all.procurement@nextdc.com.

Letter from the CEO and Chairman

NEXTDC continues to recognise modern slavery as a global issue that calls for greater transparency, human rights-related reporting requirements, and business accountability.

Our governance framework reflects the highest levels of integrity and ethical standards. We are committed to ensuring that our operations are conducted responsibly and transparent about our approach to modern slavery. This includes our compliance with the Modern Slavery Act. This statement sets out our actions in more detail.

NEXTDC has continued to conduct its business consistent with the practices outlined in the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UNGP Principles). Our Human Rights Policy acts as the overarching assurance mechanism to ensure our compliance.

Throughout FY23, we have continued to evolve our framework to identify and address modern slavery risks, taking a robust approach to manage and eliminate modern slavery risks in our corporate activities, and our supply chains. We value the rights of our people and the communities we operate in, our business partners, our employees, and those working within our supply chain.

While we have not identified any specific instances of modern slavery risk in FY23, we have continued to review areas in our operations and supply chain where risk factors of modern slavery may exist, especially with our expansion into Asia, where the risk of modern slavery can be higher. We have continued to embed modern slavery awareness and track our progress against key performance indicators. While we acknowledge that this is necessarily an ongoing program of work, we are pleased with the progress we have made in this reporting period and have set ambitious goals for the next reporting period.

Upholding the UNGP Principles and protecting the human rights of those we employ, and work with will remain a key priority, a moral obligation, and central to who NEXTDC seeks to be as a provider of first-class services. As an organisation, we will continue to innovate and invest in ways that further improve our framework in meeting the increasing customer, community, and regulatory expectations in the area.

FY23 Highlights

Published our third Modern Slavery Statement in December 2022, in line with the requirements of Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth).

Modern Slavery Committee continued to spearhead our efforts and coordinate due diligence activities on modern slavery risk across our operations and supply chains.

Conducted modern slavery risk assessments across suppliers, deep-diving into high-risk tier-one suppliers.

Developed a customised Supplier Audit Tool to support our supply chain assurance program.

Established a detailed process to enhance the due diligence process across potential suppliers throughout Asia in recognition of the increased modern slavery risks in jurisdictions where expansion is ongoing and planned.

Discussed Modern Slavery expectations with current and potential suppliers during various stages of engagement.

Continued to deliver modern slavery training to all employees to foster awareness, vigilance, and a commitment to ethical human rights and modern slavery management practices.

About NEXTDC

Who we are and what we do

NEXTDC Limited is a publicly listed technology company on the Australian Securities Exchange (ASX) focussed on supplying premium enterprise-grade data centre services, connectivity solutions, and infrastructure management software. NEXTDC entered the ASX 100 in June 2020.

The Company has thirteen operational data centres, across Australia, including Brisbane, Canberra, Melbourne, Perth, Sunshine Coast, Port Headland and Sydney, with its headquarters in Brisbane. Three other data centres are under construction in Adelaide, Darwin and Newman, Western Australia.

In June 2023, NEXTDC announced its entry into the Malaysian market with its first data centre development in Kuala Lumpur (KL1). We will be constructing a new, world-class data centre facility right in the heart of the Klang Valley metropolitan region, the cultural, financial, and economic centre of Malaysia. KL1 represents NEXTDC's entry into Asia. Our international expansion will be followed by a data centre in New Zealand with further Asian opportunities currently under evaluation.

Further details on the Company's activities, products and services, types of customers, net sales, capital, and quantity of services are available in NEXTDC's FY23 Annual Report at our website's Investor section (www.nextdc.com).

Our Corporate Values

At NEXTDC, our corporate values are not just words on a page. They are the behaviours we value most in our team. We embrace these values as the attributes by which we recognise, reward, hire, fire and promote our people. Our commitment to our values, ethics, and compliance fosters a culture that, we believe, attracts the highest-calibre employees, and builds and enhances our customer relationships.

Our Board of Directors drives culture and accountability. They ensure our values are reflected in the Company's operations and our day-to-day activities. Our values also underpin our approach to modern slavery and human rights issues, be it in our commitment to the community we work in, our supply chain and partnerships, or our employees. We care about our impact on stakeholders, including colleagues, suppliers, customers, and the community we live in. We are committed to:

- respecting the diverse cultures and heritages of our stakeholders, including local communities
- recognising the rights of indigenous peoples, acknowledging their connections to lands and waters and respecting their culture
- consulting with stakeholders on human rights issues and providing an accessible complaints mechanism to resolve grievances in a timely manner
- respecting that all employees have a right to reasonable work conditions and remuneration
- not use forced, compulsory or child labour in our operation and not tolerate such behaviours in our supply chain
- not tolerate harassment or adverse discrimination of any kind
- require that all personnel receive appropriate human rights and cultural training and guidance; and
- communicate this Policy and our commitment to human rights to all our stakeholders.

Customer First

We are obsessed with delivering the world's best customer experience.

One Team

We are an elite team working together with super stars playing in every position.

Bright Ideas

The best way to predict the future is to create it.

Pursuit of Excellence

We are relentless in our pursuit of excellence, not perfection.

Straight Talk

We don't talk bull, we have crucial conversations, we disagree and then we commit.

Frugal Not Cheap

We spend our money where it matters the most.

Corporate Governance

At NEXTDC, corporate governance refers to the reporting processes we use to ensure our business is compliant. It combines processes, audits, and activities to enable the Board to scrutinise and manage NEXTDC's activities. NEXTDC has a Corporate Governance Framework that continues to evolve as it seeks continual improvement in the way it manages its business.

NEXTDC engages with many product and service providers, especially concerning the design, build, operation, and maintenance of our facilities. All suppliers are required to comply with the Supplier Code of Conduct (the 'Supplier Code'). That includes complying with our Human Rights Policy and modern slavery requirements. In awarding contracts, NEXTDC prioritises suppliers that demonstrate best practices that are verified as part of the selection process. Following the appointment, NEXTDC's supplier assurance process is in place to verify that the Code is adhered to at all times. This process is further explained below.

NEXTDC is committed to operating in a socially responsible and ethical manner. NEXTDC aims to meet the highest standards of integrity in a clear and transparent manner. These are standards beyond our legislative requirements and reflect the values we detail in this document. Our approach to corporate governance is further detailed in our FY23 Corporate Governance Statement, available on our website at www.nextdc.com.

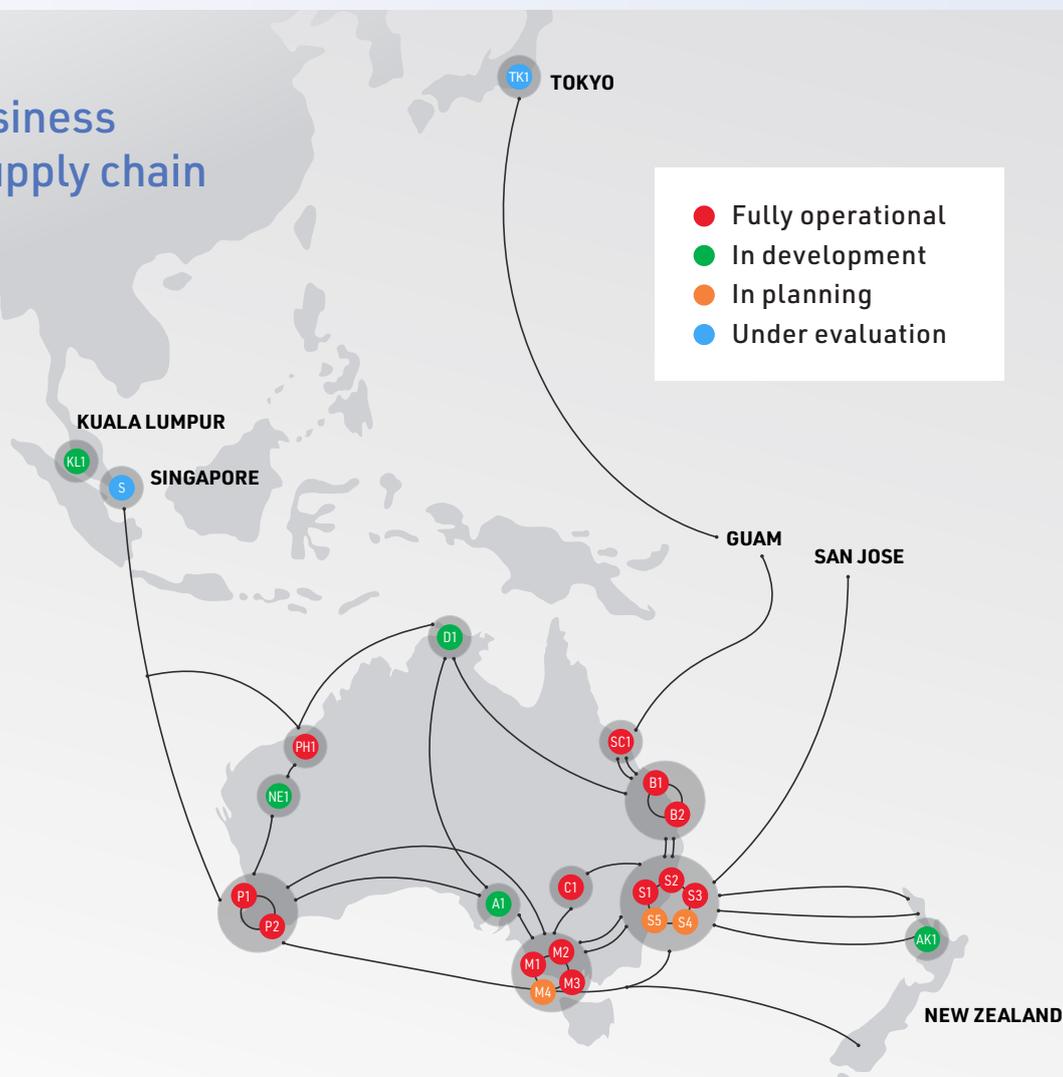

Our structure, business operations and supply chain

Where do we operate?

Headquartered in Brisbane, NEXTDC has thirteen live and operational data centres across Australia, located in Brisbane, Melbourne, Sydney, Perth, Canberra, Sunshine Coast and Port Headland. NEXTDC also has operations in Malaysia, Japan, Singapore and New Zealand.

We acknowledge that the inherent modern slavery risks vary in each of these countries and have taken this into consideration when developing our framework for addressing these.

Our supply chain

The goods and services that we source primarily relate to the development and construction of data centres, the operation and maintenance of our existing sites and a range of corporate enablement services such as the provision of office space, professional services and information technology. Our major categories of spend include:

- Construction
- Critical data centre plant and equipment (i.e., electrical and cooling systems etc)
- Energy and Utilities
- Facility Operations (including maintenance and repairs)
- Real Estate
- Professional Services
- Information Technology and Communications
- Marketing
- Travel and Entertainment

During FY23, more than 91% of the suppliers we transacted with were incorporated in Australia, although some of these goods and services originated from overseas locations. The remaining overseas related procurement included suppliers based in Hong Kong, Canada, Germany, Indonesia, Malaysia, United Arab Emirates, Ireland, Japan, Netherlands, Singapore, the United Kingdom and the United States.

Generally speaking, the majority of the workforce of our main supply chain includes directly employed staff, however in several circumstances, we have also identified the use of contract labour, low skilled workers and occasional use of migrants for specific projects where existing resource pools are not adequate.

In FY23 we paid
700 suppliers
(including government agencies) a total of $999 million

90%
of our active suppliers are incorporated and located in Australia

89%
of our annual spend in FY23 was consolidated amongst top 50 first tier suppliers

91%
of our suppliers paid in FY23 are located in Australia

Modern Slavery Framework

NEXTDC's comprehensive framework on Modern Slavery policies and procedures, is outlined below and seeks to promote an active and inquisitive approach to identifying risks and ensuring we do not support transactions involving Modern Slavery in any form.

NEXTDC's Procurement Policy sets out how we procure and manage third parties across the business and has been established in accordance with the core principles of our Procurement Framework. Our standard processes now include a risk assessment for new procurement activities and due diligence for new suppliers as required. This has been particularly important as we have expanded our supply chain to support the development of our fourth-generation data centres and our expansion into Asia. We have now incorporated these activities into the selection of suppliers and consider this to be a critical element of our tendering process.

Relevant policies

We operate the following policies that describe our approach to the identification of modern slavery risks and steps to be taken to prevent slavery and human trafficking in our operations. Each of these policies are reviewed annually and endorsed by the Board as appropriate. All the policies are available on NEXTDC's website, at www.nextdc.com.

Employee Code of Conduct

NEXTDC Board endorsed Codes of Conduct (the Codes), governance framework, and supporting policies and procedures are available in the Corporate Governance section of our website www.nextdc.com. NEXTDC's commitment to using ethical labour and eliminating modern slavery in our operations and supply chain is articulated in these documents. NEXTDC will not knowingly permit any human slavery or similar abuse to enter NEXTDC's operations or supply chain. Suppliers that are found to be in breach of these principles will not be tolerated.

Human Rights Policy

NEXTDC's Human Rights Policy applies to all NEXTDC employees, its contractors, and suppliers. This includes personnel present on NEXTDC work sites, using its facilities, or dealing with its employees or contractors. The Policy has been developed in a manner that is consistent with the United Nations' Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. It encapsulates the principle that NEXTDC will not tolerate slavery, forced, compulsory or child labour in our supply chain or business operations and confirms its commitment to maintaining a due diligence program to prevent, identify, mitigate and eliminate any breaches in this regard. We are also committed to ensuring that our supply chain participants uphold these principles, and we encourage them to adopt similar policies within their own businesses. Our Human Rights Policy is overseen by NEXTDC's Board of Directors, including the Chief Executive Officer.

Supplier Code of Conduct

The NEXTDC Supplier Code of Conduct sets out the behaviours and practices we expect from our suppliers. This includes our expectation that our suppliers will operate in a responsible manner on social, environmental, and ethical issues and comply with all applicable laws and regulations, including labour and child labour laws. Our view is that these expectations should also apply to their own supply chain and sub-contractors. The Supplier Code of Conduct reserves NEXTDC the right to audit suppliers and their operations. If a supplier fails to act consistently with the Supplier Code of Conduct or specific contractual obligations, this may result in remedial action or termination of their contract. At a minimum, we review our Supplier Code of Conduct annually to maintain its relevance and ensure it appropriately captures any human rights values that we hold. We have also taken the opportunity to regularly discuss this with suppliers with a particular focus on human rights to ensure that this message is received and understood by our broader supply chain.

Whistleblower Policy

NEXTDC's Whistleblowers Policy enables employees, contractors, and suppliers to anonymously report suspected misconduct. The Policy and associated procedures have been designed to make it easy for employees to make disclosures without fear of retaliation. This includes matters relating to modern slavery, our labour practices, and human rights. NEXTDC is committed to promoting a culture of corporate compliance and ethical behaviour to create an environment in which employees or contractors, who have genuine suspicions about improper conduct, feel safe to report without fear of reprisal. The Head of People and Culture acts as the Whistleblower Protection Officer to ensure that reporters are not personally disadvantaged as a consequence of making a report. The Board's Audit and Risk Management Committee (ARMC) Chair is an independent escalation/reporting point to whom a report can also be made if other avenues are not possible or preferred. Reports can be lodged via a dedicated email (whistleblower@nextdc.com), of which the ARMC Chair is the only recipient. The Board is informed of any material incidents reported under the Policy, which includes matters related to human rights and modern slavery. All allegations received are reviewed and appropriately investigated as per the policy. Corrective or disciplinary actions are taken immediately, where required, including identifying improvements or learning opportunities.

Modern Slavery Risks

Our Risk Management Framework

NEXTDC acknowledges that risk is inherent in all aspects of its business operations and being able to effectively recognise and manage risks and opportunities is critical for success and the growth of the Company. NEXTDC is committed to managing risk within the risk appetite set by the Board in NEXTDC's Risk Management Framework which has been established based on the ISO31000 standard, and is reviewed and endorsed by the Board annually. Please refer to our Risk Management Policy, FY23 Environmental, Social and Governance Report, and the FY23 Corporate Governance Statement available under the Corporate Governance section of our website (www.nextdc.com) for further details on NEXTDC's Risk Management Framework and its implementation.

Identification and assessment of modern slavery risks in the supply chain

Our largest human rights risks are associated with the supply of goods for the construction and operation of our data centres. Whilst we are primarily focused on our direct suppliers, we recognise that there is also a vulnerability in our indirect supply chain. Because of this, we actively engage with our direct suppliers and thoroughly scrutinise their management systems. We proactively seek to increase visibility on the origin of goods and services before these are delivered to NEXTDC.

We have continued to focus on our high-risk suppliers during FY23 and perform detailed due diligence to identify risk gaps and opportunities for improvement. We are committed to increasing our knowledge and awareness of modern slavery risks in these relationships and regularly monitoring their evolution. This includes continuing to reference resources such as The Global Slavery Index (Walk Free Foundation), ITUC Global Rights Index (International Trade Union Confederation), United Nations publications, government advice, and media reports. We also consider external factors such as geography, industry sector, and operational considerations recognising that these are iterative processes that require regular review enhanced by our learnings and relationships with these providers.

Identifying geographic risk

Whilst the majority of our first-tier suppliers are based in Australia, we recognise that supply chains are complex and often involve a number of indirect inputs. With expansion activity underway in Malaysia and more generally in Asia, NEXTDC acknowledges the increased risks associated with human rights and the supply chain. This is particularly a concern in the construction industry which is a major employer of migrant workers, and there have been reports of forced labour and passport confiscation in this sector. This is particularly relevant in jurisdictions where knowledge of modern slavery is limited and where regulation and enforcement are lacking. In these circumstances, NEXTDC is employing a higher standard and taking active steps to identify and eliminate these risks. This includes working with several tier-one suppliers, such as construction service providers to understand how these risks are being identified and mitigated across the broader supply chain in tier two and three layers. These are being included at the selection and contract negotiation stage. The process for supplier selection in Malaysia has involved physical interviews and site visits to specifically discuss modern slavery risks. As part of the tendering process, suppliers are required to formally acknowledge NEXTDC's human rights policy and supplier code of conduct prior to moving to the next stage.

We have focused on our high-risk suppliers to not only understand where their own businesses are located but also where they are sourcing their goods and services from. The countries that are most relevant to our business include Australia, New Zealand, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, China, United Arab Emirates, United Kingdom, Turkey, Malaysia, South Korea, and Philippines, where a large proportion of the goods and services we procure originates from. We are committed to working with the key suppliers with whom we have the largest influence due to the spend profile. We recognise the importance of our suppliers implementing appropriate controls, processes, and policies to mitigate modern slavery risks in countries where modern slavery is more prevalent. We continue to monitor and manage this as part of our supplier due diligence process and hold them accountable for complying with NEXTDC's Supplier Code of Conduct.

Risks by categories and sector

Computing and electronic equipment

Typically manufactured from countries that are considered higher risk for Modern Slavery due to poor regulation and limited protections for workers. Such items may include computers, mobile phones, and audio-visual equipment.

Construction

Multi-tiered supply chain layers which can involve labour from countries that are poorly regulated particularly in relation to raw materials. Use of low skilled low paid construction workers in the design and construction of new data centres and the upgrading of existing data centres

Data centre parts and consumables

Goods may be manufactured and sourced from countries with elevated risks of Modern Slavery.

Critical plant equipment

Manufacturing of subcomponents for the directly procured equipment (via tier 2 and 3 suppliers) may be sourced from locations with elevated risks of Modern Slavery.

Professional services

Services may be provided by companies engaging in long-term subcontracting and the use of labour sourced from overseas locations, where Modern Slavery is prevalent due to poor regulation.

Facility maintenance

Modern Slavery risks exist with particular categories such as cleaning, where workers are typically low-skilled, low-paid and belong to a transient workforce that is sometimes subjected to inappropriate labour hire and subcontracting practices.

Due Diligence

Our Procurement team conducts a range of supplier due diligence assessments at various stages of our sourcing and procurement process. NEXTDC's due diligence and remediation activities are performed in line with the United Nations Guiding Principles. We are focused on identifying, assessing, preventing, and mitigating human rights risks with a priority on our highest-risk direct suppliers on a periodic basis.

Prevention and mitigation

We employ an interactive process to assess human risks in our supply chain for both new and existing suppliers. This ensures that our approach remains relevant and identifies changes where we may directly or indirectly cause or contribute to instances of Modern Slavery. We remain committed to expanding our knowledge and transparency of those risks and taking appropriate action to eliminate these, including targeting those suppliers which are of most concern.

Supplier onboarding

Our supplier vetting process includes human rights risk assessment as a key criterion in the vendor approval process. Where appropriate, potential suppliers must provide additional information to address our concerns on human rights and modern slavery risk. This includes the completion of an assessment to articulate how those risks are mitigated and managed by their organisation. In addition, all suppliers are required to acknowledge NEXTDC's Supplier Code of Conduct, which outlines our commitments in this area and our expectations of their conduct in maintaining human rights standards, including the elimination of child, bonded, forced, or involuntary labour in accordance with international and domestic best practice. Where a potential supplier is not able to demonstrate their compliance with these requirements, they will not be permitted to conduct trade with us.

Renewing supplier agreements

Where a supplier is seeking to renew their contract, NEXTDC's Procurement team will review and determine whether further assessments on Modern Slavery compliance are required before new agreements are finalised. This is a step that has been introduced to provide a safety net for long-standing suppliers and to ensure our and our suppliers' human rights compliance posture is foremost in the relationship.

Desktop supplier assessments

NEXTDC continued its annual supplier desktop assessment to identify and manage modern slavery risks throughout FY23. The assessment focussed on our first-tier, high-risk suppliers and where appropriate sought information on second-tier suppliers. This assessment process was designed to provide NEXTDC with further insights into our supply chain by reviewing industry-specific data, supplier policies, processes, and the control framework in place to manage modern slavery.

In FY23, we conducted a total of 31 supplier assessments, and 13 of those were considered high-risk suppliers when considering the scope and the geographical locations. Whilst no instances of modern slavery were identified, we are continuing to closely monitor three potentially high-risk suppliers. We have continued to see an increased number of suppliers who have developed systems to mitigate modern slavery and human rights risks when compared with previous years. Where it is evident that a supplier is not demonstrating progress in this respect, NEXTDC proactively supports and educates these vendors to improve their systems and processes. The additional layers support the approach taken by NEXTDC and signify a shared commitment to permanently eradicating modern slavery in the broader supplier chain.

Physical supplier assessments

Throughout the procurement and sourcing process, NEXTDC is often required to visit suppliers' premises for a variety of reasons. This includes factory acceptance testing of key equipment or components at both their Australian and international locations. Where it is appropriate, we have committed to a process under which a modern slavery assessment is undertaken as part of supplier visits.

During FY23, the Procurement team conducted several in-person visits, including for assessing potential suppliers within the Asian region. We believe that this is an essential part of the due diligence process, particularly where modern slavery risks are considered higher than in other jurisdictions. These efforts will continue in FY24 as the business continues its expansion activities both in Australia and across the Asia Pacific area.

Supplier contracts

Demonstrating our clear commitment to eliminating human rights risks in our supply chain is also evident in our contracting process. In FY23, we have progressively continued to include modern slavery provisions within our supplier precedent agreements, including our standard purchase order terms and conditions, to impose obligations on our suppliers to seek to ensure that the suppliers act to reasonably control modern slavery risks in their supply chain. The modern slavery provisions also require suppliers to notify NEXTDC if they become aware of an instance of modern slavery in their supply chain and provide information to NEXTDC to allow it to conduct its own assessment.

In keeping with NEXTDC's approach to modern slavery, a breach of these modern slavery provisions may result in us terminating the contractual arrangement. We are continuing to incorporate modern slavery provisions into our ongoing contracts where relevant and we continue to ensure that our employees understand the importance of this control in our contracting process. It is important that new suppliers understand and appreciate these expectations and where appropriate we are also discussing this before entering into new contracts.

Training and awareness

NEXTDC continues to raise awareness of modern slavery in its organisation by educating our employees and providing a variety of awareness sessions. We are committed to continuing to build our teams' knowledge and capabilities in this regard. We regard our employees as the key mechanism in identifying and addressing the risks of modern slavery. Our training program aims to equip them with the knowledge, tools, and skills to understand and describe modern slavery, how to identify it and how to report suspected incidents.

Importantly, we have seen a significant improvement in the number of staff who have completed modern slavery awareness training. During FY23, over 98% of NEXTDC staff had completed one or more of these training sessions and further refreshers are being undertaken during FY24.

Audit

Modern slavery was included in NEXTDC's FY23 internal audit plan as part of assurance on its procurement process. No exceptions were noted in the areas of modern slavery.

In FY23, we worked with our external assurance provider to develop an internal audit program for supplier audits. We have since completed two supplier audits in FY23. Besides assessing compliance with our Supplier Code of Conduct and human rights program, we require our suppliers to disclose policies relating to ethics, compliance with the law, labour rights, and working conditions. These audits complement the desktop assessment process and will provide further assurance on modern slavery risks for our tier-1 suppliers. In FY24, we will continue to audit our tier-1 suppliers.

In FY23, NEXTDC was once again assessed by ISS Corporate Solutions for our human rights practices. We received the highest possible score of one, which indicates a higher quality governance practice and low governance risk.

Remediation

NEXTDC is committed to remediating any identified instances of human rights and modern slavery abuses in our operations and supply chain. We have provided a number of mechanisms for employees, contractors, and third parties to raise grievances, including raising any actual or suspected breaches. Policies and procedures such as our Grievance Handling Procedure, our Equal Opportunity Policy, and a variety of policies covering discrimination, harassment, workplace bullying issues as well as our Whistleblower Policy provide a framework within which our teams can raise concerns and grievances and ensure they are managed fairly and impartially. We also encourage team members to talk with the modern slavery committee members, their leaders, or People and Culture representatives about any actual or suspected breaches in a confidential manner.

Where non-conformances or risks of modern slavery are identified, NEXTDC will partner with the supplier to formulate and execute a corrective action plan and agree on a timeline for its implementation. No modern slavery related complaints were received or actioned in FY23.

Assessing effectiveness

NEXTDC's modern slavery framework represents an ongoing journey we will continue to mature in keeping pace with our growth while staying aligned with the UNGP. We will continue to build on the foundation we have established to evolve and assess our effectiveness in identifying and managing modern slavery risks within our operations and supply chain. Our modern slavery committee, which was established in 2018, will continue to drive these initiatives by:

- 🔍 Investigating complaints and grievances and reports of issues received through our mechanisms such as the Whistleblower Policy
- 🔍 Annual reporting on human rights and modern slavery related matters to the Executive Management and the Audit and Risk Management Committee (ARMC) of the Board
- 🔍 Supplier audits and other assurance activities
- 🔍 Incorporating procurement and human rights risks into the scope of our internal audit program
- 🔍 On-going assessments of compliance against our Supplier Code of Conduct
- 🔍 Continuous improvement initiatives
- 🔍 Regular engagements and collaboration with the suppliers of goods and services
- 🔍 On-going training and awareness sessions for internal and external stakeholders

Consultation

NEXTDC's overarching policies, systems and processes have been prepared in consultation with the various functions in our business including our procurement, operations, legal, risk and compliance teams in a collaboration that seeks meaningful progress in the elimination in human rights violations and modern slavery risk. This Statement was reviewed by NEXTDC's Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Risk Officer who are responsible for the overarching risk management in this area and approved by NEXTDC's Board of Directors.

Looking forward

Over the next year, NEXTDC will progress the work streams we established over the last 3 years, with the goal of continuously embedding the Human Rights Policy across our business. We will continue to build our understanding, oversight and management of modern slavery risks in our operations and supply chains. NEXTDC will continue to strengthen its ability to identify, assess and address modern slavery risks, including the evolution of and enhancements of its due diligence processes and controls. We will review and update our policies, practices and procedures, as required, to maintain appropriate safeguards against any mistreatment of persons involved in our business.

Throughout FY24, our modern slavery committee will focus closely on the below:

- Focus to bolster and drive training and awareness programs with our external stakeholders
- Extend the deep dive supplier assessment process to all new suppliers that meet the threshold
- Further strengthen our supplier audit and assurance activities, in line with the contractual obligations we have implemented
- Continue the internal assurance programs around our procurement activities by using our modern slavery framework and developing new toolsets to support these processes, including the supply chain audits with a focus on new markets
- Continue engagement with suppliers to raise awareness and improve performance and corrective actions to mitigate risk, including the use of translators and expanded communication methods
- Embed best practice and learning into our approach across Australia and Asia, including incorporating worker voice into the assessment process and collaborative efforts with our suppliers to expand coverage into tier two supply chains
- Further strengthen our process for managing suppliers that fail to improve their performance in line with an action plan or seriously violate our supplier code of conduct, including potential termination of the business relationship
- Internal audit and assurance program which measures the effectiveness of our control framework. This includes compliance with our policies. Modern slavery has been included in NEXTDC's FY24 internal audit plan as part of assurance on its procurement process.
