Modern slavery risks

We recognise that modern slavery may impact our business activities, and we endeavour to take responsibility for reducing the risk that we might contribute to modern slavery through our operations and supply chains.

Risk assessment methodology

We utilised a risk assessment methodology which considers a number of indicators of modern slavery risks including sector and industry, the type of products and services, geographical location and specific entity risk. These risk factors are based on the risk indicators and information published in:

- the Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act 2018 Guidance for Reporting Entities (Commonwealth Guidance);
- the Walk Free Foundation's Global Slavery Index 2023 (GSI 2023);
- International Labour Organization (Global Estimates of Modern Slavery: Forced Labour and Forced Marriage 2022) (ILO Global Estimates of Modern Slavery); and
- Australian Council of Superannuation Investors' 'Modern Slavery Risks, Rights & Responsibilities' report 2019 (ACSI Report).]

Our initial risk assessment has indicated that our operations and supply chain have a low potential for modern slavery risks. Our risk profile is summarised in the table below.

Risk profile

| Risk | Description of risk |
|-------------------|---|
| Sector /Industry | Risk of unskilled labour through seasonal workforces, such as those experienced in China post New Year holiday periods. |
| Product / Service | Suppliers of electronic and textiles are in a cost competitive industry where there is a potential to cut costs by compromising labour standards. |

Actions to assess and address risk

We understand the importance of working collaboratively with our associates, suppliers and the broader industry to combat modern slavery. That is why during our first reporting period we introduced a number of steps to assess and address modern slavery in our operations and supply chains.

Governance and accountability framework

The governance and accountability framework is managed and approved by the Rollease Acmeda Executive Leadership Team (ELT). Policies approved by the ELT are then implemented by HR.

Policies and procedures

Our governance framework includes the following policies and procedures to ensure we have strong frameworks to enable us to assess and address modern slavery risks, including:

- Code Conduct
- Respectful Workplace Policy

Assessing our effectiveness

We are committed to reviewing the effectiveness of our actions including modern slavery reviews conducted in Senior Leadership meetings, along with development of a Business Code of Conduct and Supplier Assessment and Review process that will include sections related to modern slavery.

Some examples of ways in which we measure our effectiveness include:

- regularly reviewing our modern slavery processes, with senior management meeting annually to consider whether we are appropriately identifying and evaluating our modern slavery risks, and
- when commencing a new operation or engaging a new supplier, assessing whether our existing risk management processes remain appropriate.

We also monitor our performance against a number of key performance indicators. These include:

- the percentage of employees who have completed training on modern slavery;
- the number of our suppliers who have committed to our Supplier Code of Conduct; and
- the number of suppliers you have asked to complete a detailed questionnaire

Looking forward

We will continue to review and consider the steps we can take to assess and address the risks of modern slavery in our operations and supply chains.

We are further developing our modern slavery framework, and we recognise there are further steps we can take to assess and address the risks of modern slavery in our operations and supply chains.

Going forward, we will focus on:

- developing an ongoing review process of assessing and addressing modern slavery risk through senior management reviews.
- introducing clauses in our standard form contracts to address modern slavery obligations.

- including clauses regarding modern slavery into new and ongoing supplier assessment and reviews.
- maintaining regular supplier visits to ensure they are complying with modern slavery and business requirements relating to our supplier code of conduct.
- developing an action plan to focus and prioritise our actions for future reporting periods;
- establishing the roles and responsibilities of people in our business who will be responsible for developing a modern slavery framework;
- developing a modern slavery policy for our business that establishes our commitment to addressing modern slavery risks;

In order to assess the effectiveness of these actions, we will:

- when commencing a new operation or engaging a new supplier, assess whether our existing risk management processes remain appropriate;
- monitor the number of suppliers committing to our policies and procedures;
- track the percentage of employees who have completed training on modern slavery; and
- monitor the number of contracts with modern slavery clauses included
