Modern Slavery

Modern slavery is a grave problem affecting many peoples around the world.

Modern slavery is a criminal offence and can occur in various forms, all of which have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty by another in order to exploit them for personal or commercial gain. Slavery under the Act includes, inter alia, the following criminal activities:

- (a) Slavery: where ownership is exercised over an individual.
- (b) Servitude: involves the obligation to provide service imposed by coercion.
- (c) Forced and compulsory labour: all work or service, not voluntarily performed, which is obtained from an individual under the threat of force or penalty.
- (d) Human trafficking: involves arranging or facilitating the travel of another with a view to exploiting them.
- (e) The worst form of child labour: the employment of children that is exploitative or is likely to be hazardous to or interfere with a child's education, health (including mental health), physical wellbeing or social development.

This statement aims to prevent the opportunities for modern slavery within our business and outlines our commitment to continually improving how we work with business and governments to meet our moral and ethical obligations to combat modern slavery.

Risks of Modern Slavery Practices in Our Operations and Supply Chain

Modern slavery risks and issues could arise as a result of EVA Airways' business operations and supply chain and could be influenced by a number of factors including (but not limited to) geographical and product specific issues.

EVA Airways is committed to ensuring that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business. All our staff are required to act ethically and in accordance with all relevant legislation (including the Modern Slavery Act) and our internal policies at all times.

EVA Airways conducts periodic risk assessment for operational activities and suppliers where it considers the likelihood and impact of known modern slavery risk factors. The risk assessment includes (but is not limited to):

- (a) Sector and industry risks. Certain sectors and industries may have higher modern slavery risks because of their characteristics, products and processes.
- (b) Product and services risks. Certain products and services may have higher modern slavery risks because of the way they are produced, provided or used.
- (c) Geographic risks. Some countries may have higher risks of modern slavery due to poor governance, weak law, conflict, migration flows and poverty.
- (d) Entity risks. Some entities may have modern slavery risks because of poor governance structures, a record of treating workers poorly or a record of human rights violations.

EVA Airways focuses on identifying relevant risks by collecting compliance information concerning each supplier before entering into contractual relationships as well as regularly reviewing existing business partners. Non-compliance issues are prevented through contract management, regular internal audits, review and/or regular meetings.

In conducting its risk assessments, EVA Airways acknowledges that the visibility of modern slavery practices in its downstream supply chain is limited and risks to EVA Airways will change over time as operational requirements change and understanding of our supply chain improves.

Actions Taken to Assess and Address Modern Slavery Risk

EVA Airways takes proactive steps to identify, assess and address modern slavery in its operations and supply chains.

EVA Airways' response and action to assess and address modern slavery risks in our operations and supply chain can be broken down as follows:

- (a) Development and Enforcement of Policy.
- (b) Training
- (c) Risk Assessment and Due Diligence.
- (d) Collaboration and Stakeholder Engagement.
- (e) Rectification.

Development and Enforcement of Policy

EVA Airways has established the EVA Airways Corporation Codes of Conduct (Policies) which are designed to ensure that we operate in line with the highest standards of ethics and reflect our continued commitment to ensure modern slavery is not taking place in our supply chains and provides a clear structure for accountability.

We implement our Policies by publishing them within our internal communications network. Reports can be made internally as well through our whistleblower program. Any breach or alleged breach of the Policies will be investigated and may result in disciplinary action taken.

Our whistleblower policy provides a framework for the functioning of the program and details the procedure for disclosing any complaints which may result in a breach of EVA Airways Policies and any modern slavery requirements. All reports made through our whistleblower program are treated with confidentiality and with regard to the protection of the identity of the individual reporting the grievance.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we provide annual Behaviour Detection training to our flight crew, cabin crew, passenger operations personnel, aircraft security personnel and security screening personnel.

We are also developing an internal knowledge hub as a resource to our employees to allow readily access a range of information on human rights and issues involving modern slavery.

Risk Assessment and Due Diligence

Over this reporting period, EVA Airways has made significant progress in implementing policies and actions to assist in addressing the modern slavery risks associated with our operations and supply chains. These include reviewing our supply chain sustainability management process and where necessary updating due diligence procedures, engaging more with suppliers on modern slavery issues and intensifying screening and qualification procedures.

EVA Airways continually monitors the effectiveness of our efforts to combat modern slavery and human trafficking, and carries out a review each year to identify any issue or areas for improvement.

Collaboration and Stakeholder Engagement

A supplier management process has been established to drive continuous improvement in our partner suppliers so as to enhance their sustainability performance and achieve the core value of mutual benefit.

If any supplier is found to have violated our corporate social responsibility policy, we have the right to demand improvement and reserve the right to terminate the contract if the violation is not improved or there is any major violation.

All our suppliers are required to sign a Letter of Commitment in relation to “EVA Air Supplier Code of Conduct (SCoC)”, which places great importance on the working conditions and environments of workers.

Prior to any commercial dealings, EVA Airways will assess the legality and ethical conduct of the other party, including assessing the risks involved with the particular service being provided, and the country in which the supplier is based. As part of our ongoing risk assessment and due diligence processes, we consider whether circumstances warrant us carrying out audits of suppliers for their compliance with our Policies.

Remediation Process

We are committed to respecting human rights across our business and supply chain. In addition to requiring suppliers to provide good quality and meet delivery deadlines, EVA Airways also works directly with suppliers. Should EVA Airways discover that, through the actions of third parties, it is (or may be) associated with modern slavery violations, appropriate action will be taken in a timely manner. Actions may include notification to regulators and/or law enforcement agencies, engaging with the relevant parties to promote good practice and/or avoiding the business relationship.

Consultation with Reporting Entities and Owned or Controlled Entities

EVA Airways has meaningful and ongoing dialogue amongst all of the entities in the Group. This includes segment guidelines, as well as legal entity guidelines and business unit guidelines. In addition, any relevant topics regarding the Act are to be included in briefings for the boards of the Group as well as the key stakeholders and business unit leaders.
