C Modern Slavery Risks

Caterpillar’s human rights team has processes in place to track reports of any relevant concerns and, based on such data and the actions described below to assess and address modern slavery risks, Caterpillar believes the risk of modern slavery is low in its operations and those of its direct suppliers.

Caterpillar is taking the following actions to assess and address modern slavery risk where it may potentially exist.

Supplier Standards

We view our suppliers as an important part of our extended value chain. Caterpillar is committed to working with them to uphold the principles in Our Values in Action, Supplier Code of Conduct and Human Rights Policy. Our Supplier Code of Conduct includes an expectation that our suppliers conduct all business in a manner that respects human rights.

Supplier Self-Assessment & Verification

We assess potential human rights impacts across our supply chain, including any impact from forced, compulsory, or child labor, slavery and human trafficking through our supplier code of conduct self- assessment program.

We instruct critical tier 1 suppliers to complete a self-assessment. That assessment includes questions regarding the policies and procedures they have in place to tackle slavery and human trafficking in their own supply chain. Caterpillar uses assessment response data to address supply chain risk through a collaborative approach with responding suppliers. In 2020, 94% of Caterpillar's priority supply base completed a self-assessment, and no significant human rights related concerns were identified. Based on that information, we consider our actions with respect to modern slavery to be effective.

Caterpillar currently does not utilize a third party in its verification process. We also do not currently perform on-site audits for social compliance or require that our suppliers certify that materials incorporated into products comply with laws regarding slavery and human trafficking in the countries in which they are doing business. However, Caterpillar may take action to verify that our suppliers comply with the Supplier Code of Conduct as needed.

Supplier Accountability

In the event that Caterpillar becomes aware of any actions or conditions within its supply chain that are not in compliance with Caterpillar's Supplier Code of Conduct, Caterpillar's expectation is that the supplier implement corrective measures. A supplier's continued non-compliance may lead to additional actions, up to and including termination of the business relationship.

Caterpillar Operations

In addition to the Caterpillar Code of Conduct discussed further below, Caterpillar has robust documented human resources processes and standards across the enterprise to ensure that its employees around the world are compensated and managed in accordance with applicable laws. Subject to applicable local law, many of those processes and standards are set at a global or regional, rather than local, level to ensure transparency and consistent treatment. These processes and standards are supported by internal human resources and legal teams located around the world, including in Australia.

Reporting Modern Slavery Concerns

We encourage any party to report situations in which they have a good faith belief that the entities or individuals covered under this Statement have taken actions that are inconsistent with the principles set forth in this Statement. In addition, Caterpillar has implemented an Australia-specific Whistleblower Procedure applicable to Caterpillar legal entities within Australia and their related bodies corporate that provides information on:

- how an individual can make a disclosure that qualifies for protection under Australian law;
- the protections available to eligible whistleblowers;
- support Caterpillar can provide to eligible whistleblowers;
- how Caterpillar may investigate eligible disclosures; and
- fair treatment of employees involved with the eligible disclosure.

Policies & Training

Caterpillar's Code of Conduct helps Caterpillar employees every day by providing guidance on the behaviors that support Our Values in Action – Integrity, Excellence, Teamwork, Commitment and Sustainability. Consistent with those Values, we treat others with respect, and we do not tolerate intimidation, discrimination or harassment. We are committed to complying with applicable laws, regulations and reporting requirements everywhere we do business. Slavery and Human Trafficking are inconsistent with our Values and will not be tolerated at Caterpillar, or anywhere in our supply chain.

All Caterpillar employees are required to complete Code of Conduct training on an annual basis. This training includes a certification by each employee that they are not aware of any activities (including human rights issues) that violate the Code.
