3. Identification of Modern Slavery Risks

We have identified the following possible modern slavery risks in our supply chain and operations:

Products and services risks

- Arrow recognizes that certain products and services may have high modern slavery risks, and this includes technology manufacturing. The products or components it distributes may be made in countries that have a high risk of labor exploitation. Arrow Australia's vendors are mainly based in the United States of America, Europe, and Singapore, but we recognize that they, or their suppliers, may manufacture goods and their components in countries of concern for modern slavery.

- Arrow Australia may employ suppliers, such as cleaners, and subcontractors, who may perform internal services for us. We recognize that there are inherent risks in outsourcing or subcontracting. The majority of these subcontractors and suppliers are based in Australia or New Zealand.

Geographic risk

- The manufacturers of the product we distribute, and use are typically based in the United States of America, Europe, and Singapore. However, we recognize that the products or their components may be manufactured in countries deemed high risk for modern slavery, including China and India.

4. Actions to assess and address risks of modern slavery practices

Our Policy on Slavery and Human Trafficking

Arrow, Arrow Holdings and Arrow Australia are committed to ensuring that there is no slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labor or human trafficking in our supply chain or in any part of our businesses.

Arrow's senior managers promote and encourage transparency, ethical conduct, and a commitment to compliance with anti-slavery and human trafficking laws. Our employees are provided with resources and training to help them meet Arrow's ethical and legal obligations with regard to antislavery and human trafficking laws, including the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015. Arrow's Worldwide Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the "Code") is a central component of our overall compliance program and contains provisions aimed at combating slavery and human trafficking. Arrow's Code is administered by our Chief Compliance Officer and all employees are required to comply with the Code and obey the law. The audit committee of Arrow's Board of Directors reviews the Code annually to ensure that it continues to meet or exceed the current regulatory framework and Arrow's operational strategies.

Proposed changes to the Code are reviewed and approved by the Board of Directors before being implemented and communicated to our employees. Additionally, the Board requires that all Arrow employees, officers, and directors review and certify their understanding and acceptance of the Code annually. Arrow's Code can be accessed on the company's web site at: <https://www.arrow.com/company/overview/corporate-governance/reporting-and-governance>.

Arrow's policies apply to all Arrow officers, directors, and employees worldwide and all of our subsidiaries and affiliated companies. The foregoing policies general principles and prohibitions, and Arrow's Business Partner Code of Conduct (as further described herein), also apply to agents, distributors, consultants, and any other third parties acting on Arrow's behalf, regardless of country of residence or citizenship.

Due Diligence Processes for Slavery and Human Trafficking

As part of our initiative to identify and mitigate risk:

- Where possible we build long standing relationships with manufacturers, suppliers and customers and make clear our expectations of business behavior;
- With regard to our supply chains, we expect each entity to have suitable anti-slavery and human trafficking policies and processes, and we may conduct third party due diligence in accordance with our procedures. With the number of manufacturers and suppliers we deal with on a regular basis, it is not practical for Arrow (and every other participant in the supply chain) to have a direct relationship with all other parties as the supply chain starts ultimately with the sourcing of the applicable raw materials;
- We have in place robust systems to encourage the reporting of concerns and the protection of “whistleblowers”. The Arrow AlertLine is a confidential means of reporting concerns for all employees, in accordance with applicable local rules and regulations; and
- Engaging in practices contributing to slavery, human trafficking and forced or compulsory labor is not tolerated. Any Arrow employee who engages in conduct that resulting or potentially resulting in a violation applicable law is subject to discipline, up to and including termination of employment. Similarly, consultants, agents or third-party service providers that provide services to or on behalf of Arrow should expect to have their contracts terminated if they violate anti-slavery laws.

Business Partner Adherence to Our Values

We have a zero-tolerance approach to slavery and human trafficking. Arrow believes in the importance of its business partners adhering to our high ethical and legal standards, and therefore require its business partners to review and comply with our Business Partner Code of Conduct, or a code of conduct that is at least as robust as the Business Partner Code of Conduct. The Business Partner Code of Conduct can be accessed on Arrow’s website at: <https://www.arrow.com/company/overview/corporate-governance/reporting-and-governance>

Training

Our compliance training program includes online and instructor led training courses. Training covers many relevant topics, including legal requirements and Arrow’s Code of Conduct. We have expanded the training materials to specifically address the definition of modern slavery and worked to increase employee awareness on this issue by expanding the target audience to receive the training. Additionally, we periodically provide key employees with informational notices on high-risk issues, where a greater potential for bribery, corruption, or practices in violation of the Code may exist. Additionally, we periodically provide key employees informational notices on high-risk issues, where a greater potential for bribery, corruption, or practices in violation of the Code may exist.

Arrow maintains a strong whistle-blower program, in line with the Australian Treasury Laws Amendment (Enhancing Whistleblower Protections Act) 2019 that provides protection for any employee or third party who report misconduct through confidential reporting. Employees can take comfort in Arrow's no-retaliation policy, knowing that reports made in good faith will not result in adverse employment action. As part of our open-door policy employees are encouraged to come forward with questions or information regarding improprieties, including any related to slavery and human trafficking. Arrow maintains the AlertLine twenty four hours a day/seven days a week, which provides employees with a means to report to the Chief Compliance Officer, the Chief Legal Officer and, where appropriate, Arrow's Board of Directors. Employees using the AlertLine have the option, where permitted by local law, to remain anonymous. Matters raised through Arrow's AlertLine are investigated and ultimately addressed. Details of the program are communicated to our Board of Directors as well as to our external auditors and the program is tested frequently throughout the year. Information on the AlertLine is included in the Code and is available on the company's intranet sites across the regions as well as our public web site.

5. Our Effectiveness in Combatting Slavery and Human Trafficking

Arrow and Arrow Australia use the following key performance indicators to measure how effective we have been in working to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in any part of our business or supply chain:

- Use of payroll systems and human resource information to ensure that all employees are registered and paid fairly for the work they do;
- The building of relationships/partnerships with the next link in the supply chain and their understanding of, and compliance with, applicable laws and Arrow expectations;
- Measuring completed/outstanding training, and the corresponding increase in employees' awareness of risk; and
- Monitoring Arrow AlertLine use and issue resolution.
