Capstone serves as the investment manager with both discretionary and non-discretionary trading authority to investment vehicles that are offered to investors on a private placement basis.

Capstone represents a set of sophisticated global institutional investors, including public and corporate pension funds, university endowments, charitable foundations, sovereign wealth funds, insurance companies, and banks.

More information regarding our operations can be found on our website.

2.3 Supply chain

As a financial services business, our supply chains largely consist of the following categories:

- professional services companies including legal and consulting firms
- Technology infrastructure and services
- Office infrastructure, rent, and services

During the Reporting Period, we had slightly less than 290 direct suppliers worldwide. The nature of our business means that our spend is highly concentrated. Our top fifteen vendors accounted for almost 50% of our overall spend in 2020.

Generally, our vendor relationships are stable and longer term. The majority of our suppliers are based in the United States or the United Kingdom and employ skilled labour in developed financial markets.

3. Modern slavery risks in our operations and supply chains

3.1 In our operations

Most of our staff carry out highly skilled activities requiring post-secondary qualifications. Roles are performed in office-based contexts in countries considered low risk for modern slavery and human trafficking.

Our staff are compensated in excess of the applicable minimum wage commensurate with experience and qualifications. Capstone complies with relevant employment legislation across our offices and ensures that employees are not subject to any form of modern slavery and human trafficking. We have internal policies that outline equitable standards for compensation, working conditions, and fair and ethical treatment of all employees.

For the reasons set out above, we consider the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking in our operations to be low.

In relation to our investment management business, we generally do not have majority ownership or control in the investments we make. We do, however, recognize the potential for modern slavery risks in investments, but consider these to be low.

3.2 In our supply chain

The risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our first tier supply chains relating to professional services is low, for much the same reasons set out in relation to our operations. The area of greater risk is likely to exist in relation to our procurement of non-core functions such as office cleaning, catering, and building facilities services. As with all businesses, there is modern slavery risk in the IT and telecommunications hardware we use to operate, often deep within the supply chains of our suppliers.

We recognise that a number of our direct suppliers are likely to rely on global supply chains for the provision of goods and/or services provided to us, which makes it challenging for us to have visibility across our supply chains beyond the first tier.

4. Actions taken to assess and address modern slavery risks

4.1 In our operations

Upon hiring, all employees are required to provide evidence of working rights. Human Resources also check that those we employ are of legal working age and are choosing to work of their own free will.

Capstone is committed to acting with fairness, honesty, and integrity. Our Code of Ethics outlines the general principles that all employees are expected to uphold, including, amongst other things, to comply with all applicable laws and regulations.

We encourage people to speak up if they become aware of potential misconduct as well as modern slavery risks and promote a culture in which everyone feels supported. Capstone's Whistleblower Policy details our grievance reporting process. Capstone has also made available a confidential and anonymous reporting hotline to all employees.

Further, Capstone takes seriously its obligation to uphold its fiduciary duty with respect to its proxy voting determinations. Capstone has engaged Institutional Shareholder Services ("ISS") to facilitate the firm's votes on behalf of its clients. Unless Capstone deems an alternative vote selection to be more advantageous to a fund or separately management account, ISS has been authorized and instructed to vote all of Capstone's eligible proxy ballots in accordance with a recommendation resulting from the application of the ISS US Sustainability Voting Guidelines. The Sustainability Voting Guidelines focus on long-term economic value preservation and enhancement through promotion of corporate governance best practices that mitigate risks to shareowners but also reflect the recognition that ESG factors could present material risks to portfolio investments. The Sustainability Voting Guidelines were specifically formulated to meet the growing need by mainstream institutional investors to account for ESG elements in their voting practices, including signatories to the United Nations Principles for Responsible Investment ("PRI") looking to fulfill their obligations to the PRI from a proxy voting perspective. ISS liaised with the United Nations PRI Secretariat to help inform the development of the Sustainability guidelines.

4.2 In our supply chains

As an investment manager, Capstone has relatively simple supply chains largely comprising of business and professional service organizations. As a result, we believe there is limited risk of modern slavery or human trafficking taking place within our business or supply chains.

We have adopted a materiality risk-based approach by seeking to understand where the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking are greatest and prioritizing accordingly. In assessing our risk, we categorized our suppliers based on the following criteria:

- Amount of spend

- Type of good and/or service provided; and
- Industry risk.

We expect all of our suppliers to adhere to all applicable laws in conducting their businesses and to operate a fair and ethical workplace for their staff.

Furthermore, we conduct certain due diligence when retaining any third-party service providers that are involved in Capstone's provision of investment advisory services, or that have contact with clients or Investors. We are assessing how this process can be extended to include modern slavery risk.

5. Proposed Improvements

Capstone aims to improve its approach to assessing and addressing modern slavery and human trafficking risks year on year. In 2021, we will strive to do so by:

- updating our Whistleblowing Policy to expressly include modern slavery and human trafficking as reportable conduct;
- introducing modern slavery and human trafficking risks as part of the procurement process for material suppliers; and
- providing modern slavery and human trafficking awareness training to all departments involved in employment and procurement processes.
