We are committed to promoting ethical business practices and policies that protect workers from being abused and exploited, both in our own business and our supply chain.

Proximo APAC is committed to limiting the risk of modern slavery occurring in our business, ensuring there is transparency in our business and in our approach to tackling modern slavery throughout our supply chain.

as such, there is lower risk of modern slavery occurring in the operations and supply chains. The broader BECLE Group engages with numerous well-known and year-by-year suppliers. Normally, the Group purchases raw materials with short term and mid-term arrangements and has an historical sequence of having at least three suppliers for each of the ingredients and raw materials. Throughout its history, the Group has defined its specific mission, to satisfy Tequila's clients' needs and take competitive advantage of vertical integration from agriculture to final consumer. The Group is always looking for an achievable improvement in benefit of the group itself and the communities, hand in hand with its core values: continuous improvement, business sense, high quality of life, teamwork, respect, communication, and commitment.

What actions have been taken by Proximo APAC to assess and address the risks, including due diligence and remediation processes?

Proximo APAC has taken multiple steps to deter the risk of modern slavery throughout our supply chain. The parent company, BECLE, issued a renewed Code of Conduct in 2022 with training provided to all staff. The code of conduct covers several areas including respect & collaboration, fair business practices, skilled professional judgement, honesty & transparency. Included in the code is a segment on Human rights and working conditions. It highlights that, as responsible corporate citizens, we only do business with partners who follow the law and always operate fairly and ethically. This includes:

- Respecting human rights of those we work and interact with and encouraging our business partners to follow similar standards.
- Supporting human rights and respecting fair labor laws, including prohibitions against child labour.
- Watching for and reporting any signs of human trafficking or forced labor.
- Properly compensating workers and respecting their right to bargain collectively.

In 2024, Proximo APAC employees were trained on the Modern Slavery Act and the role everyone can play in identifying and deterring its existence. The training will continue in 2025 to ensure the topic remains relevant for our employees.

A BECLE supplier code of ethics is provided to all new suppliers of Proximo APAC/Australia, to be signed and returned. All existing suppliers also received a copy of the supplier code of ethics. The supplier code of ethics highlights our requirements for business integrity, human rights and working conditions, health and safety, and the impact on the environment and supply chain sustainability. Importantly, an ethics hotline is provided for the communication and reporting of inappropriate conduct. BECLE operates a Whistleblowing Policy which is principally aimed at employees but is also available to those working within our supply chain. The policy encourages staff to report wrongdoings and extends to human rights violations like modern slavery. All reports are fully investigated, and appropriate remedial actions are taken.

To better understand what our suppliers are doing, Proximo issued a questionnaire in 2021 to all suppliers with questions relating to the actions being taken against Modern Slavery. Most suppliers provided a completed questionnaire highlighting their dedicated support to deter Modern Slavery and the important actions they are taking. Many of these suppliers have lodged Modern Slavery statements on the Australian Government portal, articulating the positive steps they are taking to help deter Modern Slavery. Proximo will continue to work with the small number of suppliers who failed to respond, to support their journey by supporting their requirements to help deter Modern Slavery.

Proximo became a member of TRACE in 2021. TRACE is a non-profit business association dedicated to anti-bribery, compliance, and good governance. TRACE is widely recognized for establishing compliance standards and advancing commercial transparency worldwide. Members include hundreds of multinational companies across all industry sectors. The BECLE Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption policy reinforces and expands on the guidance given in the Code of Business Conduct. Our policy outlines our commitment to win business by acting ethically and honestly – based on the strength of our products, not because we have taken or encouraged corrupt actions. Dependent on regulatory changes, we review and amend our Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption policy on a regular basis of no less than every 2 – 3 years.

In addition, Proximo became a member of SEDEX (Supplier Ethical Data Exchange) in 2021 which provides further evidence of its commitment to managing its supply chain responsibly and transparently. SEDEX is the world's largest shared platform through which member users can report and share their commercial practices in the key areas of labour law, health and safety, environment, and business ethics.
