Supply Chain Risks

We are not directly involved in activities such as the building construction, corporate cleaning and maintenance of office (and other commercial) buildings, and the manufacture of building materials and textiles used in property developments.

As part of the assessment of our responsibilities in making this Statement, we have consulted with owned Australian based related companies and suppliers.

We acknowledge that there are risks of modern slavery in various geographic locations around the world and rely upon the efforts of our Ultimate Parent Company Cargotec Finland Oy to manage the up-line risks associated products and services provided by them to us locally.

HIAB and Kalmar Australia act as importers of product and spare parts from Cargotec related companies operating internationally. Cargotec Finland's Board of Directors has laid forth a Code of Conduct that applies to all employees, directors and third parties acting on behalf of the company. This Code of Conduct is based on the commitment to the UN Global Compact and ILO Declaration on the fundamental principles and rights at work.

Suppliers are expected to follow the same principles as those are set in the Supplier Code of Conduct where Cargotec emphasises the importance of a sustainable value chain. To achieve that, Cargotec expects its suppliers to follow sustainable business practices.

Cargotec appreciates long-term and localised suppliers throughout each business area. We choose our suppliers on the basis of objective factors such as quality, reliability, delivery and price. The Supplier Code of Conduct highlights human rights as one crucial element of sustainability. The supplier criteria aims to ensure that our suppliers conduct their business in compliance with international human rights and environmental laws.

In the supplier checklist, 20% of the questions are related to issues regarding the environment, labour, ethics and compliance, or health and safety. All new suppliers are audited against these supplier criteria prior to acceptance. Additionally, new strategic suppliers go through a more detailed risk assessment process to ensure further development in human rights work.

Locally, we follow the same procedures as Cargotec Finland and have reviewed areas of vulnerability such as outsourced cleaning services, security and labour hire contractors to ensure that these suppliers are compliant with the principles of the Corporate Supplier Code of Conduct referred to above.

We have concluded that we have not identified any issues of Modern Slavery Risks.

Governance and grievance mechanisms

Code of Conduct concerns and potential misconduct are reported to Cargotec's Ethics and Compliance team either directly or through the Speak-up line. The Speak-up Line is operated by an external provider and managed by the Ethics and Compliance team. All concerns are assessed according to a formal process which is overseen by the Code of Conduct Panel of the Cargotec Leadership Team, which is chaired by the CEO.

Cargotec is committed to respect human rights within their operations, as well as to comply with national and international laws and regulations. Cargotec strives to be a good corporate citizen in each jurisdiction in which it operates and want to be a safe and trusted partner for all of its stakeholders.
