1. Introduction

This statement is made under the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) for the financial year ending 30th June 2023 (FY23), on behalf of Ralmana Pty Ltd trading as R.J. Vincent & Co. (RJV) (ABN 93009149106) and its subsidiary RJV Contracting Pty Ltd (ABN 92 637 541 470). We consulted the relevant companies that we own or control in the development of this statement.

This statement is RJV's third Modern Slavery statement and details the steps taken to assess the risks of Modern Slavery within its operations and supply chain, and actions being taken to manage these risks.

2. Our Company

RJV are committed to operating the business lawfully and ethically, ensuring that all aspects of our business practices, including our supply chains and contracting networks, are free from any form of slavery. We reject any and all forms of modern slavery which can take the form of unpaid or underpaid servitude, human trafficking and forced labour. We are dedicated to implementing effective systems and controls to ensure that it does not take place within our own business and we expect our suppliers and contractors to operate in accordance with all applicable modern slavery laws including those prohibiting human slavery and slavery like practices, human trafficking and child labour.

In FY23, we continued our analysis of the risk of Modern Slavery within RJV operations and supply chain. While our analysis, shows that the risk is relatively low, we are continually implementing initiatives to minimise the risk of Modern Slavery within our business operations.

This statement reflects our commitment to respecting Human Rights and highlights key actions we are taking to address risks in our own operations, and our supply chain, including risks associated with modern slavery. We value and observe all laws regarding corporate social responsibility, environmental and workplace safety protection, staff inclusion and diversity. The statement supports the Australian government's work on modern slavery.

2.2. Workforce

At the end of FY23 RJV had a workforce totalling approximately 280 people, employed on a full-time equivalency basis. This included 230 employed directly and approximately 50 employed through a number of local specialised labour hire companies.

RJV has policies and procedures in place to ensure that all direct employees are screened, on-boarded and employed in a manner that mitigates the risk of Modern Slavery.

Under our terms and conditions, all labour hire suppliers are required to comply with RJV policies and code of conduct.

The business strives to ensure that all employees and contractors are aware of their rights and responsibilities by providing information, policies and a grievance mechanism for individuals to raise concerns and a process to resolve any issues raised.

3. Supply Chain

During FY23 RJV continued working to analyse and review the risk of Modern Slavery occurring within the supply chain. The risk continues to be minimised by the fact that all business services are conducted solely within Western Australia.

Machinery used in civil construction are sourced from Tier 1 suppliers, that have offices based in Australia and have advanced policies and procedures in place, along with quality systems. Parts are purchased to service and maintain this equipment and these parts are all sourced from local suppliers, as are uniforms and other business consumables.

Service providers including Labour hire who source labour and services locally, predominantly work under RJV's Accredited Safety, Quality and Environment systems.

The RJV contractor prequalification system requires all subcontractors and suppliers engaged, to complete the online prequalification process prior to providing any goods or services for, or on behalf of RJV.

This process identifies and acknowledges the requirement for suppliers to submit a Modern Slavery statement, and a request for details identifying how companies monitor risks associated with Modern Slavery.

Our contractor and supplier terms and conditions have been developed to ensure that suppliers and contractors are made aware of their modern slavery obligations and that they have sufficient systems in place to meet RJV requirements.

4. Policies and Procedures

The RJV Foundations are a set of values based statements that reside at the very core of our culture. Our Foundations define who we are, how we work, and what we stand for as a business.

RJV does not tolerate any form of slavery, human trafficking, forced or child labour. We have formal policies in place that are intended to promote the foundations of the business along with ethical and legally compliant business conduct. Our policies contribute to our commitment to prevent violations of human rights in our business, they include our Code of Conduct, Whistleblower Policy and Corporate Social Responsibility Policy.

Our policies set out code of conduct expectations and apply to all workers including employees, contractors consultants and others engaged to perform work for RJV. These policies are reviewed and updated on a regular basis to ensure that they remain current and compliant.

4.1. Whistleblower Policy

RJV values the people who work within the business and encourages a culture of openness, where employees can raise concerns about any business conduct or practices. The Whistleblower Policy establishes a mechanism, so that staff and contractors can freely and anonymously (if desired) report conduct that goes against the ethics and values of the business. This includes raising any concerns of Modern Slavery within the RJV supply chain.

During FY23, RJV reviewed our entire policy suite including the Whistleblower procedure. Senior management have all completed Whistleblower training.

5. Potential Risks

During this assessment period, we have continued to assess risks that may possibly cause, contribute or be directly linked to modern slavery practices. The results from these assessments have identified areas within the supply chain that have different risk profiles. Areas with lower risk include operational activities that are directly undertaken by RJV employees and contractors who are covered by our internal processes. Higher risk areas have been identified when products and parts are sourced from overseas sources.

This risk is minimised when sourcing equipment through local reputable suppliers with audited quality systems in place, rather than buying directly from overseas. This also increases our ability to meet with suppliers, agree terms and conditions, develop ongoing relationships and audit supplier processes.

6. Actions

Over the next reporting period RJV are committed to enhancing the measures already taken and continue developing greater understanding of the supply chain and partner processes.

7. Measure of Effectiveness

The actions taken to train senior employees along with reviewing policies, updating the Whistleblower procedure and improving the supplier pre-qualification process appear to have been effective in increasing awareness and reducing risk of Modern Slavery within the business. We will continue to monitor compliance of the actions put in place and commitments made through our quality systems and annual review of policies.

This Statement has been prepared to meet the seven mandatory criteria set out in the Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act 2018 and was approved by the RJV Board of Directors on 15th December 2023.
