3. Supply chain

Most of Metroll's products are manufactured and supplied directly by Metroll and sold to businesses and customers. The raw materials, consumables, human resourcing agencies and all other businesses utilised by Metroll in the course of its operations are primarily companies incorporated in Australia.

Metroll strives to engage suppliers with a good reputation, ethics and reliable business practices. Metroll does not knowingly contract with or engage any businesses that are involved in modern slavery or human trafficking, but Metroll acknowledges that there is always some risk that may contribute to modern slavery practices by virtue of contracting with third parties and being part of a supply chain.

Generally, supply contracts are entered into on the basis of Metroll's standard terms and conditions or negotiated contractual terms depending on the type of product or service and Metroll's affiliation with the third party. Metroll requires its suppliers to comply with all relevant laws and regulations and ensures that due diligence checks are carried out prior to engagement of third parties.

4. Assessing and addressing modern slavery risks

At Metroll, we understand the importance of raising awareness to aid the ending of modern slavery practices. To that effect, Metroll has implemented the following processes and tools to assist in the detection and prevention of modern slavery risks:

- a) Supply chain mapping: Metroll undertakes due diligence in respect of its key suppliers to ensure that these parties are aligned with Metroll's policies, codes and values. Supply chain mapping involves categorising suppliers by risks associated with their geographic location, size and industry.

- b) Follow up questionnaire: Metroll requires suppliers identified as “high risk” during the supply chain mapping exercise to complete a modern slavery risk questionnaire to ensure compliance with modern slavery laws and to identify any issues. Significant issues are escalated to senior management.
- c) Training: Awareness of modern slavery risks in the workplace are communicated to Metroll employees through toolbox talks and information sheets. Senior management and procurement personnel briefings are also carried out to raise awareness of modern slavery risks.
- d) Supplier Code of Conduct: Metroll has a Supplier Code of Conduct applicable to all of Metroll’s suppliers. The Supplier Code of Conduct contains provisions specifically relating to anti-bribery and corruption, human rights including modern slavery, work health and safety and the environment.
- e) Anti-Slavery Policy: Metroll has adopted an Anti-Slavery Policy which affirms Metroll’s commitment to upholding its responsibility to comply with all modern slavery laws and regulations.
- f) Whistleblower Policy: Metroll’s Whistleblower Policy protects employees, service providers and suppliers who voice their concerns about certain events or conduct in the business that may be unlawful or unethical. The policy validates Metroll’s efforts in safeguarding the confidentiality, wellbeing and career of any individual who asserts any issues that affect the integrity of Metroll’s business operations.

5. Assessing effectiveness

Metroll is focused on continuously strengthening its procedures and processes to combat modern slavery practices and ensuring the protection of human rights. Metroll will continue to monitor, evaluate and assess the effectiveness of its established procedures by:

- a) monitoring Metroll’s existing suppliers and undertaking risk assessments in relation to new suppliers to ascertain whether they pose a modern slavery risk and, if they do, to reduce that risk to the maximum extent possible;
- b) reviewing and updating training material to ensure that it is up to date, relevant and effective;
- c) reviewing Metroll’s policies and Supplier Code of Conduct to ensure they remain relevant and in compliance with all applicable laws; and
- d) engaging with Metroll’s suppliers and key customers to verify they are following through with any modern slavery actions they have committed to undertaking.
