

MODERN SLAVERY STATEMENT

LINKFORCE

Overview

This document contains Linkforce's annual Modern Slavery Statement for the period 1 July 2021 to 30 June 2022. This statement has been developed in accordance with the requirements of the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) (the Act) and sets out the actions taken by Linkforce Corporation Pty Ltd and its wholly owned and controlled entities (referred to collectively in this statement as 'Linkforce', the 'Group', the 'Company') to identify, assess and address modern slavery risks in its operations and supply chain.

What is Modern Slavery?

Modern Slavery is the severe exploitation of other people for personal or commercial gain. It includes situations where coercion, threats or deception exploit victims and compromises their freedom.

Modern Slavery Act 2018

The Act came into force on 1 January 2019, establishing a mandatory reporting regime for entities with consolidated revenue in excess of $100 million AUD.

The Act defines modern slavery as including eight types of serious exploitation: trafficking in persons; slavery; servitude; forced marriage; forced labour; debt bondage; deceptive recruiting for labour or services; and the worst forms of child labour.

The remainder are all located in Australia, with only one exception, based in North Carolina, USA.

The Company sources a diverse range of goods and services. The highest categories of spend for the year ended 30 June 2022 were:

- Skilled subcontractors
- Wet/dry plant and equipment hire
- Labour hire
- Construction materials and consumables

Describe the risks of modern slavery practises in the operations and supply chains of the reporting entity and any entity it owns or controls

The majority of Linkforce's employees are engaged directly under permanent, fixed term, part time or casual contracts significantly lowering the risk of modern slavery. However, some parts of our operations engage labour through third party providers and subcontractors. Linkforce may not have direct supervision over these third-party workers nor have knowledge of the terms and conditions of employment.

We recognise increased risk when we engage third parties to provide low skilled labour although we note this is rare. Often these low skilled roles are filled by migrant workers, students, and Australians with low levels of education.

Whilst Linkforce continues to develop policies and procedures to help prevent modern slavery occurring in our immediate supply chain, we understand we are not immune to risk in our extended supply chain. Some of these extended supply chains involve products and countries previously identified as being at the highest risk of modern slavery.

Linkforce considers the following categories of goods and services that we procure or that our supplier's procure present a higher risk of exposure to modern slavery:

Direct Supply Chain:

- administrative and support services (such as facilities management).

Extended Supply Chain:

- personal protective equipment (PPE), in particular clothing;
- laptops, computers, mobile phones; and
- transport and logistics (including ocean freight and offshore warehousing).

Describe the actions taken by the reporting entity and any entity it owns or controls to assess and address these risks, including due diligence and remediation processes

With reference to our direct supply chain, Linkforce takes some comfort from the fact the Global Slavery Index ranks Australia as low risk for modern slavery practises courtesy of robust labour laws and enforcement mechanisms. This level of comfort cannot be afforded to our extended supply chain.

Linkforce takes a multi-faceted approach to assessing and managing human rights and modern slavery risks in our operational activities and supply chain. We oppose the occurrence of modern slavery in our operations and those of our suppliers.

Policies

Linkforce has core governance policies designed to address human rights matters including:

- Anti-Fraud and Anti-Corruption Policy – details the company’s committed opposition to all forms of fraud, misappropriations, and other irregularities.
- People Policy – outlines commitments to treat all people in a fair and equitable manner and ensure our work locations and our supply chain is free from any forms of modern slavery or human rights abuse.

Supplier and Contractor Pre-Qualification

As part of our supplier and contractor onboarding process applicants are required to agree to provide information regarding their own modern slavery process and practises, if requested, to confirm compliance with the Act.

Terms and Conditions

During the reporting period Linkforce incorporated modern slavery provisions into our standard contractual terms and conditions for the supply of goods and services. These provisions ensure the supplier or contractor acknowledges that it:

- has complied, and continues to comply at all times, with applicable Modern Slavery Laws;
- has taken, and will continue to take, all reasonable and necessary steps to identify, investigate and eliminate Modern Slavery in its operations and supply chains to ensure that no such Modern Slavery exists; and
- will promptly upon request provide all information reasonably requested by Linkforce regarding their operations and supply chains to enable Linkforce to comply with its own Modern Slavery obligations.

Describe how the reporting entity assesses the effectiveness of such actions

Linkforce’s Modern Slavery Steering Committee was initiated in the reporting period and meets regularly to review supplier and contractor performance. To date we have not identified any breaches of the Modern Slavery Act in our operations or supply chain, however we continue to encourage our employees and business partners to remain vigilant and report any infringements. Where an issue is raised we will work closely with the relevant parties to appropriately resolve concerns within the offending operation and/or supply chain.
