2. Modern Slavery and Our Commitment

This statement applies to The Independent Liquor Group (ILG) and its associated entities and outlines the activities the Group undertaken to prevent engaging in modern slavery as regulated by the Modern Slavery Act 2018.

Modern Slavery is defined in the Modern Slavery Act (Cth) 2018 as conduct which would constitute:

1. an offence under Division 270 or 271 of the Criminal Code; or
2. an offence under either of those Divisions if the conduct took place in Australia; or
3. trafficking in persons, as defined in Article 3 of the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children, supplementing the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime, done at New York on 15 November 2000 ([2005] ATS 27); or
4. the worst forms of child labour, as defined in Article 3 of the ILO Convention (No. 182) concerning the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour, done at Geneva on 17 June 1999 ([2007] ATS 38).

Examples of what constitutes Modern Slavery is forms of slavery such as servitude, trafficking in persons, forced labour, debt bondage, forced marriages, sale of and/or sexual exploitation of children or sale of children for forced labour exploitation, where victims are forced to work out of fear of violence and/or intimidation.

3. Our Structure, Operations and Supply Chain

3.1 Our Structure and Operations

Australia's largest liquor co-operative, The Independent Liquor Group was in-cooperated in March 1977, as a member owned organisation of licensed liquor stores, hotels, registered clubs and restaurants working collectively to obtain the best service and benefits whilst maintaining their own autonomy and independence. Membership to the Co-operative allows the return of all surpluses to members in the form of subsidised wholesale prices and patronage rebates.

The ILG's two Cooperative structure was adopted in 2000 with the objective to build our first distribution centre in Glendenning and to better service our members: The ILG Suppliers Cooperative and the ILG Distribution Cooperative co-exist since 2000 and provide financial support to each other in order to fulfil our principal activity - the acquisition of liquor and related products from its members for wholesale sale.

We employ approximately 140 staff members depending on seasonal fluctuations and have three distribution centres located in Erskine Park Business Centre, Western Sydney in New South Wales, Richlands in Brisbane, Queensland and Mount St John in Townsville, North Queensland. Via ILG Retail Pty Ltd, the Group also operates retail bottle shop business in Bacchus Marsh, Victoria and in Banksia, New South Wales.

In order to prepare for this statement, we have engaged and consulted all entities we own and control, including our wholly owned subsidiary ILG Retail Pty Ltd. We discussed details of the Modern Slavery Act 2018's reporting requirements; information regarding the actions we intend to take to address these requirements and provided them with relevant materials and updates.

3.2 Our Suppliers

Our direct supply chain (Tier One Suppliers) assists us with activities in wholesale, distribution of alcoholic beverages or non-alcoholic beverages within NSW, QLD and VIC.

Our Tier One Beverage Suppliers (those we purchase alcoholic and non alcoholic beverages directly) are all registered to operate within Australia with Liquor Wholesale License and therefore subject to the compliance of Modern Slavery Act 2018.

Our Tier One Labour and Logistics Suppliers (agencies and companies we engage directly to assist us with distribution of beverages) are all registered to operate within Australia and therefore subject to the compliance of Modern Slavery Act 2018 and the Fair Work Act.

Our other Tier One suppliers that provides services and products to assist with our daily operations, such as accounting, IT, administration functions etc. are also registered businesses who operates within Australia.

We have undertaken a business-wide review of our direct supply chains as above and identified that the potential risks for occurrence of modern slavery is low. None of our beverage or products are imported directly. Instead, the purchases have been made through our Tier One Suppliers, who have already implemented strict procedures in accordance with Modern Slavery Act according to their Modern Slavery Statements.

However, we identified that potential risk areas may occur within our smaller suppliers which may have less resources to develop their own compliance framework. The Board will endeavor to assist these small businesses by sharing our own framework with them if needed.

The Board also will endeavor to analyse the complexity of our indirect supply chain and will work closely with our Tier One Large Suppliers in identifying potential risk areas according to the severity of risk consequences.

4. Governance, our Policies and Procedures

4.1 Governance

In line with our commitment to minimizing the risk of modern slavery and upholding human rights in our operations and supply chains, the Board of Directors has approved the Anti- Slavery and Responsible Sourcing Policy. This Policy is available on the ILG Website.

We have also established the following governance process to provide the Board with reassurance that we are in compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2018:

Executive Risk Committee:

- Previously in 2021 Modern Slavery compliance is under the Work Health Safety Committee scope of work. However, the Board and Management would like to enhance awareness of modern slavery risks and decided that the Executive Risk Committee is better suited to be responsible for identifying and implementing process improvements and ensuring compliance with Modern Slavery Act
- The Committee members include CEO, CFO, Supply Chain Manager, Category Manager, Company Secretary (Risk and Compliance Manager), HR Manager and Other Executive Managers who make procurement decisions.

Audit and Risk Committee

- Oversees compliance in accordance with risk and compliance framework
- Oversees corporate reporting which includes the ILG Modern Slavery Statement

4.2 Policies and Procedures

ILG also has policies and procedures which have been updated to promote ethical behavior and conduct:

- Code of Conduct
- Whistleblowing Policy
- Anti-Slavery and Responsible Sourcing Policy
- Supplier Trading Agreement
- Supplier on-boarding procedures

5. Identifying and Taking Action to Address Modern Slavery Risks

5.1 Risk analysis

ILG has updated its Risk Management framework to include the management of potential risks for modern slavery and human rights breaches.

A detailed risk assessment of non-trade suppliers of services and labour has been conducted by our HR Department with labour hire agencies to understand how the contracts have been carried out and monitored in practice. We found that the risk of non-compliance is very low as these agencies are subject to strict legislation requirements including Fair Work Act.

A high-level risk assessment of the Cooperative's supply chain undertaken based industry, products and spend level found that the risk of breaching modern slavery in our supply chains are low, as majority of our trade suppliers have registered office within Australia and have submitted Modern Slavery Statements in compliance with the Act.

ILG will continue to further assess and engage Tier One Large Beverage Suppliers in identifying risk areas. This involves identifying supplier personnel responsible for the oversight of modern slavery, requesting compliance declaration of their modern slavery due diligence, and audit reports of facilities involved in the manufacture and production of products sold to ILG.

We have also identified the risks that some of our small Trade Suppliers may not have enough governance professionals within their organisation to raise the awareness of modern slavery or to manage potential risks, due to limited resources.

ILG will assist our small business suppliers in raising the awareness of Modern Slavery Risks within their organisation, supply chains and foster the culture and best practice of risk management. We endeavor to share our policies and processes upon request by these suppliers.

5.2 Supplier and service provider requirements and procedures

In addition to the review of policies, we reviewed the adequacy of our existing trading agreement and contractual documents with suppliers and service providers to further minimize the risk of modern slavery.

This led to amendments to the contractual documentations and procedures that have applied within various departments of ILG.

- All new supplier and non-trade service agreements will include a condition that the supplier complies with the Modern Slavery Act and domestic and international labour laws
- Our supplier assessment and on-boarding process will include provision of information on labour management and compliance practices at their operational site(s):
 - Supplier's latest Modern Slavery Statement if the supplier turnover is more than $100,000,000
 - Description re compliance of Modern Slavery Act 2018 if the supplier turnover is less than $100,000,00, such as systems in place to demonstrate compliance, for instance Site assessments and policy documents.

Any existing supplier and service agreements that do not include appropriate modern slavery compliance requirements will be taken into account in our stakeholder engagement program as part of our due diligence process. Priority for further assessment and engagement will be given to those suppliers or service providers identified as being in medium risk category.

5.3 Training and employee awareness

Due to COVID, we were not able to conduct workshops for all employees. However, our Trading and Supply Chain Team, Work Health Safety Committee, Warehouse Managers have been trained on Modern Slavery and human trafficking awareness, risk management and our compliance process.

All employees are provided direct access to Cooperative Code of Conduct, Policies and Principles via intranet. Team leaders and Executive Managers have helped prompting awareness and understanding of modern slavery and human trafficking within their teams by incorporating this topic into team meeting agenda. This will enhance our ability in identifying and reporting issues should they arise.

6. Grievance and Remediation

The United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights is a great resource for us to use as a guideline in dealing with modern slavery legislation breaches and human rights violations.

In the unfortunate event of breach or potential breach, we will work with our suppliers to either resolve or substantially mitigate the concerning practices. The Board of Directors will assess the level of breach or potential breach together with the consequence of these practices, and make decision on the best action required by the ILG, taking into consideration that if we terminate the contractual relationship, the livelihood of the supplier's employees would be adversely impacted.

Where zero tolerance practices such as servitude, child labour, forced, bonded, trafficked or non-voluntary labour or the use of corporal punishment is found, the supplier's contract will be terminated.

The ILG Anti-slavery Policy details the company's role in remediation. This policy is available on our website.

In addition, the ILG Company Secretary, who acts as Risk and Compliance Manager and provides governance, risk and compliance advice to the Board of Directors and Management team. The Company Secretary also acts as Ethical Standards Officer and is the key contact for the Modern Slavery Policy and Whistleblowing Policy.

7. Assessing the Effectiveness of our Actions

We have integrated modern slavery risk management into our existing reporting systems and processes where we monitor and measure the effectiveness of our actions by setting key performance indicators:

- tracking employee completion of the training module,

- the number of issues reported through our Ethical Standards and Whistleblowing process.
