This Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement is the sixth statement produced by the ultimate parent company of the Navitas Group, Marron Group Holdings Pty Ltd ACN 631 941 403 (MGH). This statement constitutes a Joint Statement from MGH and each of the entities marked with an asterisk (*) in Appendix A in accordance with section 14 of the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018. This statement is also made by MGH's subsidiaries in the UK: Marron Group UK Holdings Limited (Company Number 11846150) and Navitas UK Holdings Limited (Company Number 6009965) in accordance with section 54 of the United Kingdom's Modern Slavery Act 2015. This statement describes the steps taken by MGH, its continuing wholly owned companies, and companies controlled by MGH, to minimise the risk of modern slavery or human trafficking in their business or supply chains during the reporting period of 1 July 2024 to 30 June 2025. MGH is a privately held company registered in Australia¹. MGH is the ultimate parent company of the Navitas Group, including the entities² listed in Appendix A³. In this report we are referring to these entities collectively as "Navitas", "we" or "us".

1 Registered address: Level 26, 101 Collins Street, Melbourne VIC 3000
2 The names of these legal entities and country of registration and operation are detailed in Appendix A
3 This Statement extends to Marron Group Holdings Pty Ltd, its wholly owned companies and companies that it controls. It does not include companies where Navitas works with a partner university in a joint venture structure.

Navitas acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the land in Australia and respects all First Nations peoples in the countries in which we operate.

We recognise and respect the continuing living cultures of First Nations peoples throughout the world, and recognise their connections to lands, seas, waterways, sky and Community. We pay our respects to Elders past and present.

MESSAGE FROM GROUP CEO

At Navitas, we have responsibilities as an educator, an employer, and a global citizen.

We know we have a role to play in creating a better world. Our Impact strategy, informed by the UN SDGs, guides our ESG journey and has allowed us to identify 12 priority topics – including a commitment to modern slavery prevention and eradication. Our goal is to better understand, measure, and improve the impact we create.

This year marks our sixth year of modern slavery reporting. The reports allow us to demonstrate our continued commitment to improving our human rights practices and tackling modern slavery risks across our global operations. They also give us the critical opportunity to reflect on our areas of improvement and ensure we are doing everything we can to keep our communities safe, to build awareness, and to empower our teams to act.

This year, in response to evolving risks, we refined our focus to strengthen due diligence and risk management practices in relation to education agents and supply chain operations. We started development of supplier screening forms to identify red flags and fill any gaps in our supplier code of conduct. And, we established a Modern Slavery Steering Committee to provide strategic oversight and create alignment across our working groups and related projects.

We continued to promote staff modern slavery awareness training across our divisions – to date over 2000 team members have completed the training. We also began work on developing modern slavery awareness training for our global network of education agents, building on our strong foundation of staff training and student-focused initiatives from prior years.

While continuing progress on building student and staff awareness, FY25 was a year of consolidation and targeted action amidst broader ESG and regulatory priorities. We maintained our commitment to transparency and improvement, with an emphasis on embedding outcomes into business-as-usual processes and preparing for more robust performance monitoring in future statements.

We want to be part of creating a world where all individuals can live safe and dignified lives. As educators, employers, and global citizens, we are proud to share our FY25 Modern Slavery Statement as demonstration of our commitment to learning, improving, and moving forward in our journey.

Scott Jones
Group CEO, Navitas Pty Limited

Our impact

At Navitas, we're thinking a lot about impact.

We're considering the impact we have on our people, our students, and our partners. As an educator, an employer, and a global citizen, we want to operate in a way that positively impacts current generations – without compromise for future generations. How do we amplify our positive impact? And how do we manage impact that doesn't align with our values and goals?

Our approach to managing our impact aligns with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). From these SDGs, we have identified 12 priority areas, including Human Rights and Modern Slavery.

ABOUT NAVITAS

Navitas is a global education provider, headquartered in Perth, Western Australia. We work with universities, industry partners and governments to transform lives through education.

Our success is underpinned by our unparalleled international network, our commitment to student experiences and outcomes, and a passion for discovering new models of teaching and learning that will improve education now and into the future.

Navitas is a proud Australian company that pioneered an innovative university partnership model of education in Perth in 1994.

What we do

University partnerships

We partner with universities all over the world to offer international and domestic students pathways to higher education. Our students benefit from exceptional support and teaching excellence and our partners benefit from our global resources and international expertise.

We provide managed campus services for many of our partners, enabling them to reach more students in more locations.

Accredited higher education

Our independent providers offer accredited certificate, diploma, degree and postgraduate programs that equip learners with the skills they need to make valuable contributions to industry and society.

Specialising in creative media and human services disciplines, our university colleges offer a diverse range of programs to meet industry demand and the needs of learners.

Language and employability skills

We deliver English language and testing services and literacy and numeracy programs to help clients develop essential skills.

Our work-integrated learning programs offer students the skills and experience needed to maximise their employment prospects and our management and professional development programs are helping to prepare and strengthen the leaders of tomorrow.

Our vision and values

Our vision is to be the best global education provider in the world for our students, partners and people.

In achieving our vision, we are guided by a strong set of values:

We demonstrate DRIVE by achieving and advancing together

We are ADVENTUROUS in mind and spirit

We have CONVICTION to our purpose and potential

We are GENUINE in the way we behave and deliver

We demonstrate RIGOUR in enhancing our professional reputation and credibility

We show RESPECT by celebrating, valuing and caring for people and the environment

OUR STRUCTURE, OPERATIONS AND SUPPLY CHAINS

Our structure

Our operations

University Partnerships divisions

Our University Partnerships divisions deliver pre-university, managed campus and university pathway programs designed to increase students’ access to higher education and prepare them for future success. University Partnerships courses are delivered via on-campus colleges, through an agreement with a partner university, in a structured environment aimed at maximising student success. Most Navitas pathway colleges operate under the branding of their partner university.

This statement covers the following colleges and campuses in the University Partnerships divisions operating in the period 1 July 2024 – 30 June 2025, as well as the UMass Boston Global Student Success Program and ICN France Pathway Program that we ceased our involvement with after the end of the reporting period.

Navitas Education Trust

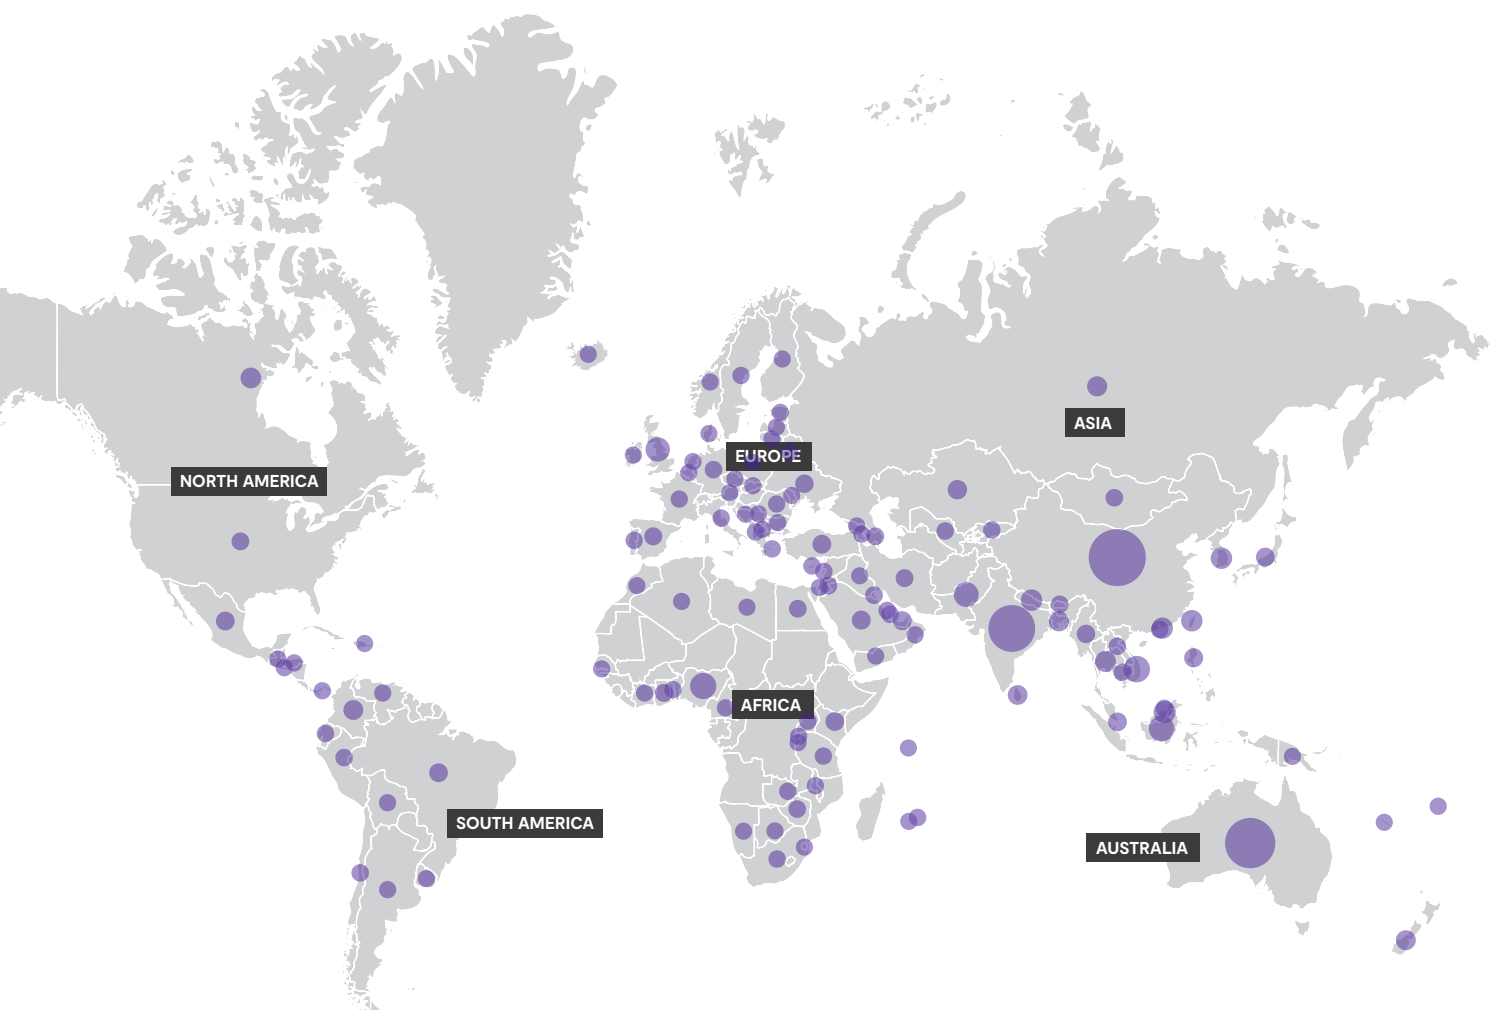

Our purpose of transforming lives through education extends beyond the experiences we offer to our students. The Navitas Education Trust (NET) provides support to not-for-profit development organisations with an education focus to bring about change where it is most needed.

Since 2013, Navitas has contributed annual funds to the NET, assisting numerous world-wide education-based projects. These projects, in turn, have helped many people gain better access to education, improved the quality of offerings, and contributed to teacher training and infrastructure.

Our supply chain

Our most significant suppliers by spend and geographic spread are the education agents (also referred to as education advisors) we partner with to recruit international students into our programs. Educational agents provide students with information about options for studying and living overseas and, in many cases, support them with their study and visa applications. During FY25 we worked with 2,000 contracted agents in 125 countries around the world.

Navitas education agents by country

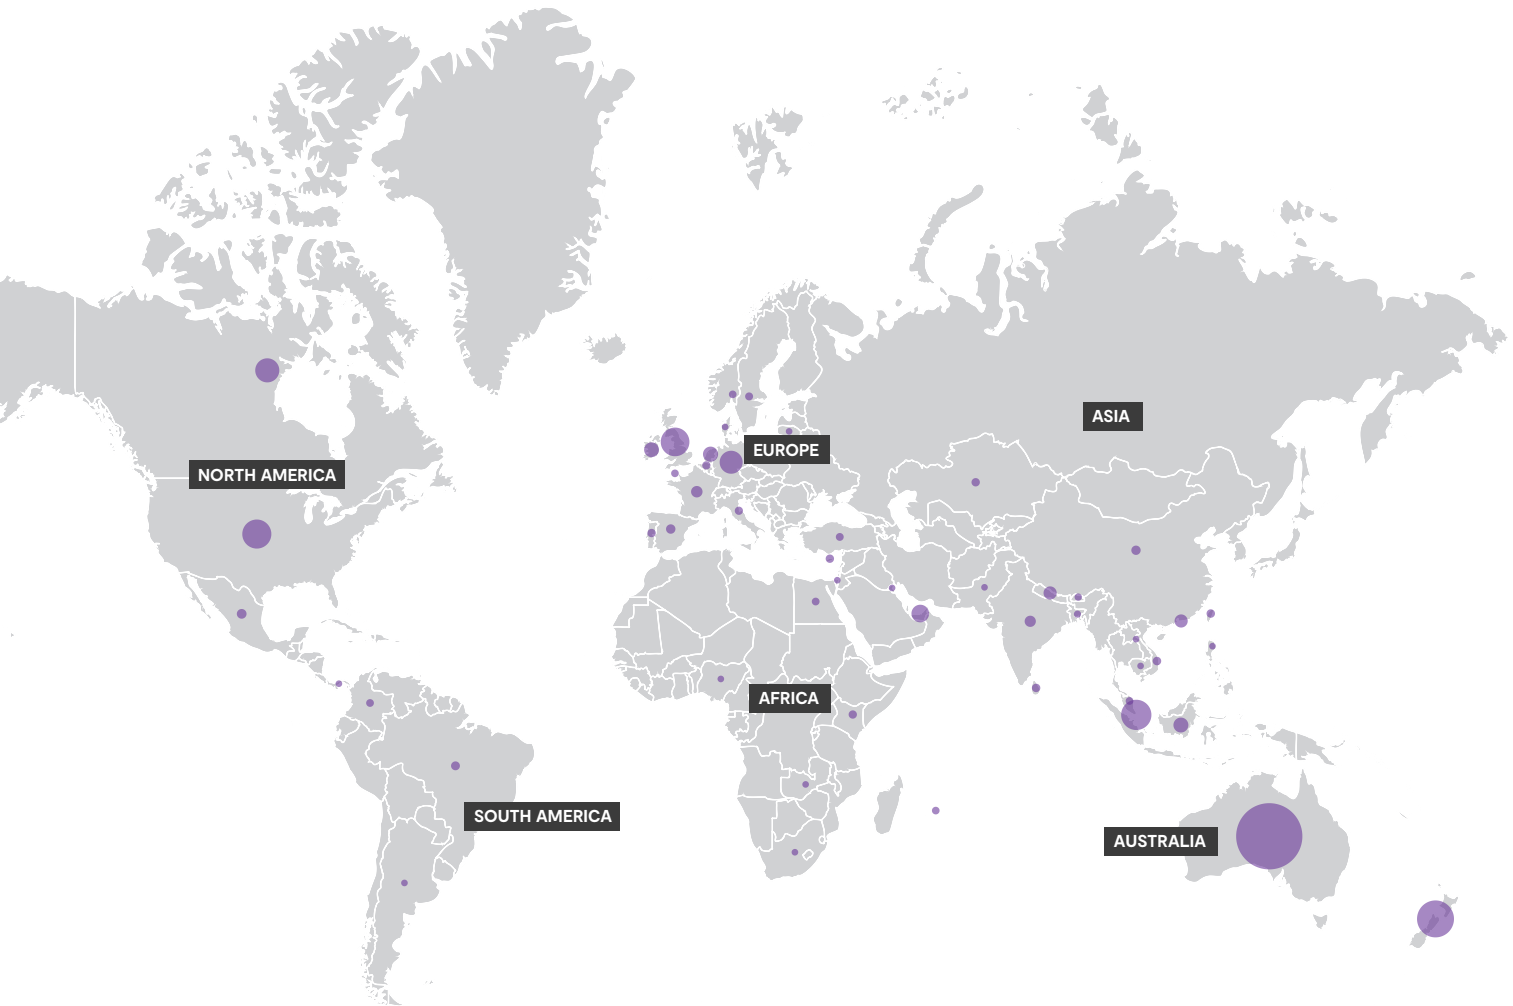

Other than expenditure on our educational agent commissions and incentive programs, analysis of our supply chain identified our procurement activity falls into one of seven categories:

Procurement category		Example of goods and services procured
 Real estate		Construction and fit out of premises, rent, utilities, repairs and maintenance.
 Teaching and learning materials		Books, teaching materials, examination materials and associated
 Technology and equipment		Software, telecommunication, IT support services and technology hardware (such as laptops, monitors and peripherals), audiovisual equipment, gym and fitness equipment, musical instruments.
 Brand, marketing and communications		Advertising, banners, signage and promotional merchandise such as hats, t-shirts, umbrellas.
 Professional services		Audit, accountancy, legal services, insurance, consultancy, research and analysis.
 Workplace services		Office equipment, stationery, furniture and onsite services such as cleaning, catering, waste management, security.
 Travel, meetings and events		Venues, air travel, hotels and ground transportation.

Our businesses source from a range of locations with the largest volume sourced from Australia, the United States, the United Kingdom, Singapore, Germany and Canada.

MODERN SLAVERY RISKS IN OUR OPERATIONS AND SUPPLY CHAINS

Navitas understands that all products and services carry the risk of modern slavery practices in their operations and supply chains and that no entity can declare themselves to be slavery free.

We have assessed our risk of modern slavery practices using the framework set out in the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and also the Australian Government Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act 2018 Guidance for Reporting Entities. We have considered the risk that the Group may either cause, contribute or be directly linked to modern slavery through our operations or supply chain. These terms are explained below:

Cause	The risk that our operations directly result in modern slavery occurring (eg we use forced labour in our offices).
Contribute	The risk that our operations and/or actions contribute to modern slavery occurring. This includes acts or omissions that may facilitate or incentivise modern slavery (eg if our negotiations with suppliers to lower costs result in them using forced labour in their own operations or supply chain to meet our requirements).
Directly linked	The risk that our operations, products or services may be connected to modern slavery through the actions of another entity we have a business relationship with. (eg Electronic goods we purchase to run our operations may have been manufactured by another entity using components produced by forced or child labour).

STUDENTS

Young people, especially international students, are at a heightened risk of experiencing modern slavery, whether in their home country or the destination country they may choose to study in.

For Navitas, students are exposed to risks in two key areas: in their home country students may be at risk of modern slavery and human trafficking facilitated using student visas (see Education Agents section below); they may also be at risk after they arrive at the destination country for study.

We recognise that international students are especially vulnerable to exploitation in the workplace as they have less immediate support when living overseas, a lower level of English or local language skills, and may be unaware of the workplace laws and their entitlements.

Students may be subjected to wage theft, sham contracting, threats of dismissal, excessive working hours and deceptive recruitment in any country where we provide education. This type of exploitation is considered an indicator that modern slavery, such as debt bondage, forced labour and/or forced marriage may be present. This risk is amplified by the fact that third party education agents are used to assist with student placement.

EMPLOYEES

Navitas employs approximately 5,000 full time, part time, sessional, fixed term and casual employees across our global operations. The education industry is not recognised as a high-risk industry from a modern slavery perspective due to its regulated nature and skilled nature of work. Additionally, the majority of our workforce is employed on fixed-term or permanent contracts. These factors, combined with our employment policies and processes, reduce the risk of modern slavery being caused by the Group within our directly employed workforce.

We recognise that the risk of modern slavery varies by geography, depending on local laws, customs and practices. Navitas operates in 36 countries of which UAE, Turkey and Russia are considered to have 'highest' prevalence of modern slavery, as measured by the Global Slavery Index 2023. We therefore consider there to be a high risk that our staff or contractors in these countries may be subjected to modern slavery practices such as excessive working hours, unpaid work, underpayment, or forced labour.

NAVITAS EDUCATION TRUST (NET)

We conduct due diligence on all the not-for-profit organisations we support through the NET. We only make grants to Australian-registered charities who are required to comply with the Australian Charities and Not-for-Profits Commission External Conduct Standards. These standards require charities to comply with Australian modern slavery laws regardless of where they are operating.

Charities in receipt of NET funding often partner with local organisations to deliver projects. There is a risk these local organisations may be based in countries where there is a higher prevalence and acceptance of modern slavery practices. This increases the risk that Navitas may be unwittingly linked to modern slavery practices.

In FY25 the NET made grants totalling $252,319 AUD to organisations delivering educational projects in Vietnam, Indonesia, India, and Zambia. Some of these countries are considered to have a high prevalence of modern slavery, as per the Global Slavery Index 2018.

Our supply chain

EDUCATION AGENTS

International education agents play an essential role in ensuring Navitas and other organisations continue to provide life-changing learning opportunities for students around the world. Around 75% of our international students use an agent to help them find the right course in the right city and navigate complex application and visa processes.

Research has identified that migrants who rely on third parties (such as migration agents or recruitment agents) are at higher risk of modern slavery, human trafficking and forced labour⁴. Evidence suggests trafficking is sometimes facilitated using student, visitor/tourist, or working holiday visas⁵.

We recognise there is a risk that agents who recruit students for overseas education institutions may be directly or indirectly involved in modern slavery practices. For example, knowingly or unknowingly assisting a trafficker to obtain a student visa for a victim of trafficking, forced labour or other forms of indentured service. Therefore, there is a risk Navitas could be linked to modern slavery through its network of education agents and their sub-contractors.

4 International Organisation for Migration and the Minderoo Foundation Walk Free Initiative (2019) Migrants and their vulnerability to human trafficking, modern slavery and forced labour
5 Coalition Against Trafficking in Women Australia (2019) CATWA Submission to the Draft General Recommendation on Trafficking of Women and Girls in the Context of Global Migration.

OPERATIONAL GOODS AND SERVICES

We recognise there is a potential for us to contribute to, or be directly linked to, modern slavery practices through the procurement of the goods and services used to operate our business. Procurement of goods and services that use low-skilled workers, short-term contracts, migrant workers or where sub-contracting and outsourcing is more prevalent increases the risk of being directly linked to modern slavery practices. Additionally, where the product or service is sourced or produced will also influence the risk of modern slavery practices.

Analysis of our supply chain has identified the following higher risk product or service categories that are relevant to our operations:

- electronic equipment
- cleaning services
- branded promotional goods, including clothing
- construction and fit out of new campuses.

In terms of FY25 geographic modern slavery risks, we sourced from 2950 suppliers globally, across 51 countries in total. Out of these countries, we work with 6 suppliers located in countries that are identified in the Global Slavery Index by Walk Free (available on <https://www.walkfree.org/global-slavery-index/>) as 'most prevalent' countries for modern slavery.

Electronic equipment

Navitas relies on technology and equipment in its operations, including laptops, mobile phones, printers, and audiovisual equipment.

The systemic labour issues in the technology hardware industry are well documented. These include exploitative labour practices due to the low-skilled nature of the work and the low-cost model upon which the industry has been built, combined with the raw material supply chain, which is exposed to high levels of modern slavery risk (noting that this is a universal industry-wide challenge).

We primarily use Dell Technologies for our IT equipment. Dell is a founding member of the Responsible Business Alliance (RBA) and has adopted the RBA code of conduct to hold itself and its supply chain accountable.

However, review of our supply chain data suggests the use of many other suppliers of electronic equipment, particularly audiovisual equipment used by our SAE campuses. In FY25, we conducted desktop assessment to understand the measures taken by these suppliers to reduce the risk of modern slavery within the supply chain. We found out that 87.32% of total spend is via suppliers that have a public anti-slavery statement. The rest of the spend is mostly involving small Australian shops with spend well below $15,000.

Cleaning services

The onsite cleaning services performed in our offices and campuses have been identified as presenting a moderate inherent risk of modern slavery practices.

The cleaning industry is widely known as having a heightened vulnerability to modern slavery practices due to the prevalence of migrant labour in the workforce, the low-skilled nature of the work and known controversies of underpayment and poor treatment of workers.

This risk also depends upon the country we are operating in, eg cleaners in countries listed as 'high prevalence' on the Global modern slavery index by WalkFree might be at more risk.

Branded promotional goods including clothing

We procure a variety of promotional products such as hats, lanyards, pens, t-shirts and bags to be used at student recruitment events and business conferences. These products are typically locally sourced from within the countries where the events take place and/or where our businesses are located.

Countries we sourced from in FY25 include Australia, China, Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Singapore and UAE, and UK. These types of products are often made by low skilled workers in countries such as China, Malaysia, and Vietnam, where there is evidence of labour rights issues including excessive working hours, indentured labour and poor working conditions. The low-cost nature of these products and use of sub-contracting can increase the risk of modern slavery practices.

Construction and fit out of new campuses

The property and construction sector faces an elevated risk of modern slavery within its operations and supply chains due to the use of lower-skilled workers who are vulnerable to exploitative practices, and the need for raw materials that are often sourced from high-risk geographies. Business models in the sector tend to be heavily based on outsourcing, which increases the complexity of operations and supply chains and decreases the visibility of labour risks and impacts.

In FY25 we were involved in, or planning for, the construction and fit out of campuses or offices in Australia. We also established a new campus in Indonesia. We engage only with reputable contracting companies registered with authorities, and with registered employees. This ensures full compliance of labour rights for their employees, and the overall site conditions are well monitored with a qualified engineer supervising at all times.

OUR RESPONSE TO OUR MODERN SLAVERY RISKS

All entities owned and controlled by Navitas operate in the education sector, have similar supplier profiles and have been assessed as having the same risks of modern slavery in their supply chain. As a result, actions taken to address our identified modern slavery risks apply to all Navitas owned and controlled entities.

Governance and policy

In FY24, we established a Modern Slavery Working Group with the intent to address our gaps in the above assessment, specifically the newly identified risk to students. Additionally, we tied modern slavery into our annual ESG reporting framework to help us measure and track progress in this area.

The working group was reformed in 2025 to focus on developing and rolling out modern slavery awareness training to our agent network.

In FY25, we established a modern slavery steering committee (reporting into our ESG steering committee) to oversee the workings of the modern slavery working group.

The MGH Board has responsibility for overseeing the Group's response to modern slavery risks. The Board has approved the Group's Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Policy which sets out our expectations of divisions to identify and manage the risk of modern slavery. The Executive Leadership Team (ELT) consists of divisional CEOs and reports to the Board. The appointment of an ESG director to the Executive Leadership Team in FY23 has enabled progress towards monitoring and managing the Modern Slavery risks across the organisation. The CEOs of each of our divisions are ultimately responsible for managing modern slavery risks in their areas of operation and are accountable to the Group CEO and the Board.

Marron Group Holdings Board

 - Designs and implements processes for remediating any instances where modern slavery is identified.
 - Provides data and information to support annual Group reporting.

Our policy framework is designed to embody what we stand for as an organisation, providing guidance to help us make the right decisions and advice on what to do if we witness behaviour that does not reflect our values.

The table below outlines our policies that are relevant in the context of modern slavery.

Values in Action (Code of Conduct)

Outlines how we demonstrate the Navitas values through our behaviour. It symbolises what we stand for as an organisation and sets expectations for our employees and partners.

It includes how to report non-compliant, illegal, or unethical behaviour or actions via our Speak Up portal.

Whistleblowing Policy

Defines reportable conduct and provides details of how people can report such conduct including via our Speak Up portal (see above).

Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) Policy

Outlines our environmental, social, and corporate governance principles, including:

- supporting the protection of internationally proclaimed human rights, in particular to support initiatives to promote access to a quality education in disadvantaged communities and to not knowingly engage in business situations that could result in the Navitas Group causing, contributing to or being directly linked to human rights abuses;
- upholding freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining;
- promoting the elimination of all forms of forced and compulsory labour, the effective abolition of child labour, and the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation.

All employees are required to take these principles into account in their decision making.

Group Delegations of Authority

The Group Delegations of Authority embed the requirement for all staff to take ESG principles into account when exercising delegated authority.

Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Policy

Sets out minimum standards expected of our divisions to address the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking in their operations or supply chains.

Group Procurement Policy

Outlines Navitas requirements for the procurement of goods and services. This includes:

- requirements that goods and services are sourced in a socially and ethically responsible manner
- expectations for due diligence and the minimum standards we expect our suppliers to meet, and
- requirements for ongoing monitoring of suppliers and reporting of concerns.

ASSESSING THE EFFECTIVENESS OF OUR ACTIONS

In FY25 we focused on agent and supply chain risk areas only, while we continued building on our efforts established in FY24 in regard to students and staff awareness.

We cannot easily or fully assess the effectiveness of measures we are taking. However, we have established expectations for modern slavery risk management through our Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Policy as summarised in the table below. Progress against these expectations is reported to the MGH Board as part of the Navitas risk-reporting process.

Criteria	Expectation
Accountability for modern slavery issues, with an identified risk owner	A risk owner has been identified for addressing modern slavery issues in operations and supplier chains.
Policies	Policies and procedures have been implemented to manage the risk of modern slavery.
Supply chain mapping and risk assessment	Supply chains have been mapped and understood.
	The risk of modern slavery in operations and supply chains has been assessed.
On-boarding and contracting	Due diligence is performed on new suppliers to determine their risk level in relation to modern slavery.
	Contracts contain appropriate modern slavery clauses.
Audit and compliance program	Supplier performance is monitored to confirm ongoing compliance.
Training	Team members receive adequate training in relation to modern slavery and any supporting processes applicable to their role.
Complaints mechanism	An accessible and well-publicised reporting mechanism is in place to enable reporting of modern slavery concerns. The reporting mechanism allows for confidential and anonymous reporting and provides protection from reprisal. There must be clear processes for investigating and reporting on the issues raised through the reporting mechanism.
Remediation	Processes are in place to support suppliers to remediate breaches of the minimum standards.
Stakeholder engagement	Approaches to stakeholder engagement are in place.
Review	The effectiveness of the modern slavery risk management measures must be monitored and annually reviewed.

Our focus for subsequent reporting periods will be to develop meaningful Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) to measure the effectiveness of the actions taken to identify and address modern slavery practices in our operations and supply chains.

In FY25, we received four reports from whistleblowers. None were related to Modern Slavery. All reports capable of being addressed under the Whistleblower Policy were investigated and addressed. A summary of whistleblower reports is provided to the Board quarterly with any significant matters being reported immediately.

In FY25, there were zero modern slavery incidents reported in our operations and supply chain.

CONSULTATION AND APPROVAL

Consultation

In preparing this Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement, Navitas has consulted with the Modern Slavery Working Group, ESG Steering Committee, MGH Board members and the Navitas Executive Leadership Team (including each Divisional CEO who are also directors of one or more subsidiary companies owned or controlled by Navitas in their region). Input has also been sought from Navitas' Group Legal, Group Risk, Group HR, Group Finance functions, and the NET Manager.

Approval

This Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement was approved by the Board of Directors of MGH on 29 October 2025.
